Tyrrell Sees November Win

KINGSTON "We were the winner at the convention. We were the winner in the primary and on Nov. 3rd we'll be in City Hall."

Thus said James J. Tyrrell, the Republican party's official candidate for mayor after his 32-vote victory in Tuesday's three-way GOP primary in the city.

Tyrrell came in with 589 votes in the unofficial tally. His nearest opponent, Clifford V. Bunting, had 557. John R. Mayone was last with 432 votes.

The voting was considered light with 1,568 votes being cast out of eligible number of 4,359, or slightly more than 37 per cent. By comparison, the Republican primary last year between H. Clark Bell and Peter J. Savago for assembly brought out 61 per cent of the vote.

Praises Supporters

Tyrrell attributed his victory to a door to door campaign by himself and the "tremendous job" turned in by his supporters. "We won by a slim margin," he said, "But we'll win by a bigger margin in November."

Tyrrell faces Francis R. Koenig, the Democratic nominee and Bernard Singer, the Conservative in the November runoff.

Tyrrell said that the Republican party was not a party of a few. "It includes us all, we are not a one man party." In the same vein, he commended the committeemen who had voted for him in the March 24 convention and who had worked for his nomination. "Those 26 committeemen kept me going," he said.

Tyrrell said he harbored no resentment against those persons who had worked against him in the primary campaign. "I hope those districts that voted against me will now join me."

Tyrrell promised a hard campaign, "a campaign based on the issues, a personal campaign." "I am not going to attack opponents, regardless of what they say about me."

Mayone, a former city chairman and veteran campaigner, was the first to enter the mayoral race. Tagged as the underdog, he held that position throughout.

Tyrrell's candidacy soared when he won the vote of the unofficial county convention in March but his entry into the race did not meet with the approval of a number of his party, including some aldermanic candidates who dropped out as contenders following Tyrrell's nomination.

Uptown businessman Bunting, after a long period of determination, made his entry into the race at a later date and received an eleventh-hour endorsement by City Chairman Ward Ingalsbe who announced only last Friday that he could not support Tyrrell and threw his support to Bunting.

Ingalsbe indicated at that time that he would resign his post in the event of a Tyrrell win.

Tyrrell carried seven wards, the third, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, 11th and 12th.

Bunting carried the first, second and fifth. Mayone carried the fourth, 10th and 13th wards.

An Early Lead

Bunting took an early lead as the returns came in from the Uptown Wards, namely the First, Second, Fifth and Sixth wards. Bunting, an uptown resident and businessman had been expected to run strong in those wards, and he did, but Tyrrell stayed close.

However, Bunting's lead after the Uptown wards were tallied was only in the mid 30's. The tide slowly shifted to Tyrrell, a Downtown resident, as the votes from that area came in. Tyrrell's home ward, the Eighth, put him over the top.

The unofficial tally is as follows:

FIRST WARD—Tyrrell, 58; Mayone, 41; Bunting, 75.
SECOND WARD—Tyrrell, 64; Mayone, 31; Bunting, 127.
THIRD WARD—Tyrrell, 61; Mayone, 52; Bunting, 54.
FOURTH WARD—Tyrrell, 43; Mayone, 53; Bunting, 47.

FIFTH WARD—Tyrrell, 51; Mayone, 52; Bunting, 56.
SIXTH WARD—Tyrrell, 48; Mayone, 29; Bunting, 45.
SEVENTH WARD—Tyrrell, 27; Mayone, 23; Bunting, 18.
EIGHTH WARD—Tyrrell, 74; Mayone, 36; Bunting, 37.
NINTH WARD—Tyrrell, 28; Mayone, 8; Bunting, 6.
TENTH WARD—Tyrrell, 34; Mayone, 39; Bunting, 6.
ELEVENTH WARD—Tyrrell, 26; Mayone, 12; Bunting, 13.
TWELFTH WARD—Tyrrell, 53; Mayone, 10; Bunting, 33.
THIRTEENTH WARD—Tyrrell, 22; Mayone, 46; Bunting, 30.

Dye Retains Candidacy, Other Incumbents Win

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

With a scant 25-vote margin, Republican Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye held on to his candidacy for county legislator coming in fifth out of a field of six in Tuesday's Second District primary. (Towns of Hurley, Ulster, Marbletown and Kingston). Dye was not endorsed by the GOP.

Low man was veteran politician Charles Relyea who ironically lost in his own Town of Hurley as well as Marbletown. Dye in turn took his own Town of Kingston but lost the more heavily populated Town of Ulster. About 30 per cent of enrolled Republicans turned out.

Top winners in the hard-fought contest between the five party-endorsed candidates and Dye were incumbents, Richard Nace of Ulster, 1,670; Lester C. Elmendorf, Ulster, 1,619 and S. Robert Kelder, Marbletown, 1,614.

Newcomer Lewis Hall of Hurley received 1,350, Dye garnered 1,313 and Relyea, 1,288.

Relyea's loss was in three of the six districts of Hurley, known as Old Hurley. West Hurley Republicans voted for him.

Upsets in various GOP committeemen races throughout the county also characterized the primary.

Much interest centered in Saugerties where there were contests in five districts with a number of incumbents losing their posts.

Also in the Town of Kingston, Dye's stronghold, where the two incumbents, Joseph Quick and Maurice Reedy were tied for second place with 77 votes each. Kenneth Whispell topped the ticket with 81 votes and Marvin Stoddard came in last with 71.

According to election law, in the case of a tie, neither contender wins the post and a vacancy is therefore created automatically. Such a vacancy may be filled temporarily by the town chairman, subject to the approval of the county chairman until a vote of the entire

Three Somber Men After the Primary

KINGSTON One man was brokenhearted. Another man just shrugged and the third man wasn't quite sure what he was going to do.

They were the losers in Tuesday's Republican primary, won by the party's unofficial nominee, James J. Tyrrell.

John R. Mayone, who finished last in the three-man race, said he was "broken hearted and bleeding." "I've learned not to say anything at a time like this," "I'll have to take a hard look at my future role in the Republican party after this rejection by the voters. It hurts. I've been a Republican for 23 years."

Clifford V. Bunting, the other losing candidate, a man who came within 33 votes of being his party's nominee for mayor, offered little comment. "I think there's a great deal of apathy in the party when only about 40 per cent of the enrolled voters turn out in an election of this importance."

"I'll support the nominee. I'm a Republican, I said that during the campaign and I'll stick to it," Bunting also said that he would offer his ideas to Tyrrell on how to better the city.

Ward W. Ingalsbe, the party chairman, who rejected the party's unofficial nominee in favor of Bunting, said he was undecided whether to resign immediately or withdraw his name for reelection. The city committee will meet within 15 days to decide who will lead it for the next two years. Ingalsbe was unanimously elected as interim chairman in March when Mayone stepped down to run for mayor.

"I don't suppose there's too much I can say at this point. I've made myself pretty clear on how I feel," Ingalsbe said. Ingalsbe said that he could not support Tyrrell, last Friday. He also said that his chairmanship would be incompatible with Tyrrell's election.

On Saturday, Tyrrell called for Ingalsbe's resignation after Ingalsbe had thrown his support to Bunting. Tyrrell's views on this subject have apparently not changed. "He should resign," Tyrrell said last night. "The Republican party needs new leadership if we are to win in November."

Big Law and Order Votes Aid Marchi, Procaccino

NEW YORK (UPI)—Law-and-order candidates, riding the crest of a backlash against New York City's labor and crime troubles, Tuesday won upset victories in mayoral primaries over Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay and former Democratic Mayor Robert Wagner—both liberals.

Lindsay, who still will be in the Nov. 4 general election as the liberal party candidate, vowed he would win then because "the voices of doubt and fear cannot be permitted to govern this city. He joins Republican John J. Marchi, who defeated him, and Democrat Mario A. Procaccino, who downed Wagner. But for Wagner, whose latest job was U.S. ambassador to Spain during the Johnson administration, it appeared the end of a political comeback some pundits had predicted might lead to the U.S. Senate.

Mailer Also Loses

Another loser was Pulitzer-prize winning author Norman Mailer, who ran for the Democratic nomination on the Badillo 215,381 and Rep. James Scheuer 38,631.

With both the Democratic and Republican candidates running vote, lost with the same humor as he had campaigned. When asked at one point if his candidacy were serious, Mailer replied: "Have you seen the other candidates?"

With all 5,286 precincts counted, Marchi had 111,723 votes and Lindsay 106,358 in the Republican primary.

In the Democratic Primary with all 5,286 precincts counted, Procaccino had 252,283, Wagner 221,605, Mailer 41,136, Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo 215,381 and Rep. James Scheuer 38,631.

With both the Democratic and Republican candidates running platform, it appeared Lindsay would be a substantial candidate in November. Many liberal votes from both parties that had been scattered in the primaries were expected to go to him almost as a bloc, while Procaccino and Marchi battled for the conservative votes. Supporters of Wagner, Badillo, Scheuer and Mailer were expected to back Lindsay.

Wagner, who served as mayor for 12 years until Lindsay's election four years ago, said in conceding defeat "It's a sad day for the Democratic party—for all parties. Lindsay has been awful," he added, "But gee, imagine it under Procaccino."

Unperturbed By Defeat

Lindsay appeared unperturbed by his defeat, vowing to keep his job in the general election. "They will be repudiated in the fall. We are going to win that fight. We will win it because the voices of doubt and fear cannot be permitted to govern this city."

Marchi, a 48-year-old state senator also running under the banner of the conservative party, said "We've given the people a choice and they've made their selection. This is a city in a tragic pattern and we propose to reverse it." Procaccino, a rotund, 56-year-old Italian immigrant, said "I am proud that prejudices have been cast aside in my election and we have proved once again that only in America can a man of humble origins be chosen by a great political party to be its candidate for mayor in the greatest city in the world."

Teachers OK Pact

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz Teachers Association meeting here Tuesday, voted to accept, with a qualification, the salary package recommended by an impartial fact finder.

Since the New Paltz Central School District's Board of Education has issued a preliminary endorsement of the same recommendation, the Teachers Association's action virtually assures the resolution of three month old salary dispute. The board is expected to finalize the agreement at a special meeting, June 23.

The terms of the compromise salary package, worked out by the Louis A. Rosaco, fact finder for the Public Employees Relation board, which has been mediating similar disputes between teachers and administrators in school districts throughout the state, calls for a $6,800 base salary, representing a $500 increase over last year.

In addition, there will be an increase in the annual salary increments received by teachers. The school district employs what is called an index plan, whereby the amount of the increments are determined by the number of post graduate credits received by the teachers, as well as years of service, to the district.

Roland Ellis, President of the New Paltz Teachers Association characterized the proposed settlement as a "professional agreement" between the board and the association. However, Ellis noted that the ratification vote, taken by the teachers Tuesday, indicated "that we are not altogether happy" with outcome.

Meanwhile in nearby Highland, negotiating teams for the Highland Teachers Association and the Highland Central School District Board of Education will meet again tonight, in attempt to resolve their dispute regarding teachers salaries, which has dragged on for more than five months.

A PERB fact finders report which was submitted to both parties last month has been endorsed by the teachers, but has failed to receive the approval of the school board.

Two Arrested In Theft of Doctor's Bag

SAUGERTIES

Two Saugerties young men were arrested Monday afternoon by village police in connection with the theft of a doctor's medical bag from the front seat of Dr. Herman Ash's car parked in his garage. Both were charged with criminal possession of a dangerous drug, fourth degree.

They are James Supino, 25, of North Road, who entered a guilty plea when he appeared before Village Justice David Goble. He was sentenced to one year's probation with a condition discharge in that he enter a state narcotics hospital for rehabilitation. The case of Edward Mulstay, 18, of 19 Clermont Street was adjourned until July 2. County District Attorney's Investigator Thomas F. Ways and Means Approval

Surtax Extension: Big Gain for Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has scored a substantial gain in his drive for a full year's extension of the income surtax but opponents are continuing their effort to cut it back, if not in the House, then in the Senate.

The House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday gave its approval to the Nixon anti-inflation package, practically intact. It includes continuation of the surtax at its present 10 per cent rate through Dec. 30, with the rate halved for the first six months of fiscal 1970, tax relief for low income taxpayers, repeal of the investment credit and postponement of scheduled reductions in automobile and telephone excise taxes.

The House will vote next week.

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., acting chairman of the committee, pledged support and cited endorsement of leaders of both parties in the House. But he predicted a tough fight and would not claim victory in advance.

The committee was unofficially reported to have voted 15-10 against an amendment to cut back the surtax extension to Oct. 31.

Five Democrats out of the 15 on the committee joined all 10 Republicans in defeating the shorter period, sources said. Thus the measure goes to the Democratic-controlled House with its key provision endorsed by only one-third of the committee Democrats.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, a committee member who is pushing for a shorter extension promised to continue the fight in the Rules Committee and the House. He and his associates fear leverage for early tax reform will be lost if the surtax is extended for a long period.

One of the group conceded to a reporter chances are not bright in the House. But he added, "We will keep the issue hot and build up a record for the Senate." Senate rules make it easier to offer amendments there.

The provision benefiting low-income persons—a "sweetener" that did not satisfy many liberal Democrats—was calculated to relieve about 2 million poverty-level families of all tax and all benefit about 13 million persons.

Under present law, a family of four with $3,500 income is liable for $74 income tax. It would pay none, under the proposal, which would take effect Jan. 1.

The administration won another victory when the committee approved repeal of the investment tax credit, which allowed businesses to recover up to 7 per cent of investment in equipment.

The Treasury calculated that the package means a net gain of about $9.1 billion in revenue during the year beginning July 1, foreshadowing a surplus of some $6 billion.

The administration has insisted that the surplus is needed to curb inflation.

Rondout School Budget Decision Placed in Hands of New Board

By SHANE CROSBY

KYSERIKI — The Rondout Valley Central School Board of Education said here Tuesday that it would leave any decision on the 1969-70 budget up to the new board, scheduled to organize on July 1.

The school's $4.1-million budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was defeated by 80 votes last week, placing the school in almost the same financial position as it was this time last year.

Board vice president Eleanor Black, who chaired the meeting in the Middle School Library with about 70 persons looking on, said the three newly elected members of the board should be directly involved in the budget decision. The three, Jack Van Newkirk, Wayne Kelder and Carl Grassi, will join the nine-member board for the first time at the July 1 organizational meeting.

The board now has the option of adopting a contingency or austerity budget for the year, or may present the same or a modified budget to the voters again.

Until a budget is approved, Superintendent Dr. Ted T. Grenda said the board would have to authorize a temporary budget at the July meeting to operate the school as the present fiscal year ends on that date.

After turning down last year's original budget, the board offered a second but similar budget and nine options to the voters. The second budget went down as well as eight of the nine options. A third vote was taken as the 1968 school year was about to begin to decide on the issue of extra-curricular activities. That measure was approved by voters on Sept. 16.

The board's presentation of the budget was criticized by many in attendance at the meeting with William Davenport of Stone Ridge and Donald Ross of High Falls leading the objectors.

Davenport charged that the board had "failed" by not defending the budget and instead letting school officials make statements in defense of the measure.

"The board of education has got to be willing to stand on its own feet," said Davenport. "You can't expect your staff to do it for you."

The Stone Ridge businessman said the board had "not acted in a proper manner" during the five informational meetings on the budget and charged that members were either not present for the meetings or did not speak in the budget's defense in most cases.

Ross involved Davenport in the board's activities saying he had headed a "pressure group" that sent a letter on school stationery that sought the registration of "a select few" citizens for the voting.

Ross read a copy of a letter signed by Davenport that asked "a handful of persons" to question unregistered parents of students in an effort to have them register.

He said the board was approving the letter by allowing it to be printed under a school letterhead.

Davenport, defended by the superintendent and the board, said the list of names sent out was the only one available and that he knew of no way to gather names of unregistered potential voters in the district outside of the students' parents.

It was noted that the letters were mailed in Davenport and Sons' envelopes and postage was paid for by Davenport. The Rondout Valley Teachers' Association issued a statement at the meeting that called for the resubmission of the budget, saying "we are cognizant of the financial pressures the board faces, but as educators we see budgetary cuts and removal of essential services as a step backward in education."

The association also called for the inclusion of remedial reading as presented in petition form before the vote and added as a proposition. That item had been defeated by voters along with the budget.

The board later noted that if the remedial reading issue were to be added to a resubmitted vote, the same process of petition and proposition would have to be followed.

Saugerties - - New Budget Cut $71,104

SAUGERTIES — an alternative but to operate upon an austerity budget. According to statute, the budget must be advertised for a period of two weeks before a vote can be taken, so July 2 represents the very earliest opportunity for the vote. Copies of the present budget with an additional cover sheet indicating the amounts of the changes will be available at the Administration Building, Hill Street seven days prior to the voting. Any voter of the district having questions concerning the budget is invited to contact the superintendent of business manager at the Administration Building.

The revised figure which came out of the Monday night review by the board will reflect in an estimated tax rate of $115.92 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, as compared with the current rate of $113.23.

The cut was achieved by eliminating the following, the board noted: Three extra teachers at $8,000 each to meet unforeseen increased enrollment; the adult education program, $5,670; four instructional aides for the elementary schools, $10,434; noon hour aides and composition correctors for high school, $7,200; in-service education projects, $3,400; an additional science teacher, $8,000; professional reference books, $300; additional bleacher sections, $1,100; salaries of substitutes, $3,000; home teaching, $2,000 and curriculum projects, $6,000.

Commenting on the new proposed budget, Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools said:

"The budget upon which we are currently operating ends as of June 30. Beginning July 1 and until such time as the budget is adopted, we have no

Rocky in Third Day Of Discussions

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller plunged today into a third round of discussions with Brazilian officials who have played down the government's military backing and played up economic progress.

The day brought discussions with Interior Minister Costa Cavalcanti on the impoverished northeast and with Education Minister Tarso Dutra, business groups and intellectuals.

The New York governor's stay in Brazil has been the longest of any stop on his fact-finding tour for President Nixon—and has produced the most open discussion Rockefeller has enjoyed with any government.

Strict security precautions precluded any anti-American demonstrations in Brasilia, his first stop, and Rio de Janeiro. Rockefeller's group was heading for Sao Paulo later in the day.

The governor found President Costa e Silva aware of the adverse feeling in Washington about the military-backed Brazilian president's suspension of congress and seizure of absolute powers in December.

Rosendale Bouncing Back, Treasury Account Swells

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE, N.Y. — In the short time since the May 2 announcement that municipal services in this village would be suspended, there was less than $200 in the village accounts, the treasury of Rosendale has now swelled to almost $9,000 with more money due in taxes at the end of this month.

Special

Services that were suspended because there was a lack of funds in the bank, have been returned to normal. Village officials, including Mayor William P. Curran, have had their salaries paid once more.

Just Fine

Curran, who ordered the suspension of services shortly after he assumed office, said things are "just fine" since his original edict. He has declined to comment on the financial woes since that time, if in fact, they still exist.

He has stated that a few delinquent taxpayers have come up with some back taxes and said one person even offered to pay on tax bills that are not due until the end of June.

Far from being "Rosy in Rosendale," Curran has faced problems of:

—His lone garbage collector quitting. "I need a helper," he was reported to have told the mayor. The collector has since been replaced by two.

—The discovery of an anticipated $23,500 deficit in the village water fund, causing the mayor to double the water rates.

—Outbursts at public meeting that caused him to place "fully armed police" on duty at meeting room doors, and who were first used at the mid-day meeting of the Trustees to "remove" former trustee Joseph LaFera.

—The need to raise taxes by 10 per cent with prediction that next year's tax rate could be reduced by 10 to 15 per cent.

—The recent case of fellow Republican and trustee Kenneth Smith, who won election in March on the ticket with Curran, going against the mayor in voting for municipal measures.

—Complaints from businessmen and residents about the closing of Main Street while Rondout Creek Flood Control Project crews work to raise a section of the street some five feet.

On top of those problems Curran has had to face in his two and one half months in office, there is the case of the theft of some 22 valves from the Tillson Reservoir that are valued at about $800 and that leave the emergency water supply "out of order" until replaced.

Curran said the theft was discovered shortly after he took office, and to date no arrests have been reported in connection with the case.

Moving Ahead

As the village pulls itself out of the May suspension of services and begins to fill its coffers with tax monies—new tax bills are due at the end of June—Mayor Curran is now beginning to move ahead on other matters.

In an effort to make "Rosendale one of the most progressive villages" in the area, he recently announced the signing of a survey contract with the state Pure Waters Authority for the possible construction of a sewage system that he told The Freeman could be a "million dollar project."

Curran said he hopes to present the sewage plan to the voters later this summer in public hearings, when, he hopes, the problems of May will have subsided.

Financial Administration Is Charter Commission Subject

KINGSTON

The county's system of financial administration and control will be the subject of a public hearing to be conducted by the Ulster County Charter Commission, Wednesday, June 25, in the County Office Building.

Tentative provisions of the proposed County Charter dealing with the office comptroller and a department of finance will be discussed with Daniel Alfonso of Highland, Charter Commission vice chairman conducting the meeting.

The proposal provides for a department of finance, headed by an appointed commissioner of finance and for a comptroller elected by the voters for a four-year term.

The commissioner of finance, who would be appointed by the county executive subject to confirmation by the county legislature, would be responsible for the administration of all financial affairs of the county including collection, receiving, having custody, depositing and disbursing all fees, revenues and other funds.

The elected comptroller would be responsible for auditing and certifying all lawful claims and charges, including payroll, against county funds. He would audit the financial records and accounts of all units of county government and submit required reports to the county executive and legislature.

These proposals, as finally drafted following Wednesday's hearing and further deliberation by the Charter Commission, will be included in a proposed county charter to be recommended by the commission of the Legislature.

If that body approves, the charter goes before the voters and voters of the county outside of the city.

Present county financial administration is the responsibility of the county treasurer, with the purchasing agent acting as auditor.

Chemical Warfare Review Welcomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new organization of scientists critical of the nation's supersecret chemical and biological warfare arsenal has reacted with unreserved enthusiasm to President Nixon's order for a full review of all CBW programs.

"I think that's one of the best things that's happened in a long while," Yale University biologist Dr. Arthur W. Galston said after the White House Tuesday announced a sweeping reappraisal of whether development and testing of CBW agents is necessary and proper.

Re-examination

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler also announced that the 1925 Geneva protocol designed to curb chemical and biological warfare will be re-examined. The United States promoted the document 44 years ago but still has not ratified it.

Nixon's review, to be conducted by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the State and Defense departments, came after a rising congressional and public outcry. The concern was spurred by the death of some 6,000 sheep near a nerve gas testing ground in Utah last year and the Army's plans—since delayed—to ship 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical-laden bombs overland by train and dump them into the sea.

The congressional chorus of protest began as a one-man crusade by Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, a third-term Democrat from Buffalo, N.Y. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee then held hearings, and Ziegler said the entire subject was explored in past National Security Council meetings.

The NSC will receive the results of the new study. Gerard Smith, director of the arms control agency, wrote McCarthy Tuesday the review will be detailed. "Within the U.S. government, the control of chemical and biological weapons is a subject of major concern," he added.

Pleased by Plans

McCarthy said he was pleased with the review plans and said he thought they would lead to a resubmission of the Geneva protocol, which he, Sen. J. W. Fulbright and 35 congressmen are requesting in a resolution.

Scientists worried about chemical-biological warfare formed the Scientist's Committee on Chemical and Biological Warfare last December during a professional meeting in Dallas. They decided the group's most pressing objective should be to begin a comprehensive scientific study of the "ecological and sociological effects of the use of CB agents in Vietnam."

"The chemical warfare program in Vietnam has top priority," its president, Dr. John B. Neillands, said in a telephone interview Tuesday night. He is a professor of biochemistry at the University of California at Berkeley.

He also condemned the use of riot-control gases to flush the enemy from caves and tunnels in Vietnam, contending a substantial number of people have been killed because lethal amounts were used. The Geneva protocol, he said, forbids the use of all gases, making no distinction between lethal and nonlethal ones. "We have thoroughly violated the Geneva protocol in Vietnam," he said.

He offered his group's cooperation in the Nixon review and said he personally hoped it would include Vietnam.

Scores Foundation Hold Of A & P Supermarkets

HORSEHEADS, N.Y. (AP) — fire loss over the past six years Huntington Hartford, heir to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company fortune, charged Tuesday that the A&P is controlled by a tax-exempt foundation founded by his uncle.

The John H. Hartford Foundation holds 33.7 per cent of A&P stock, Hartford said, and "runs the company." Furthermore, there is a "conflict of interest" in that A&P officers are trustees of the foundation.

Hartford said at the annual stockholders meeting in this community near Elmira that he will seek federal action to curb what he called abusive use of tax exempt foundations in ownership of public corporations.

He suggested a limit below 20 per cent on the amount of stock a foundation can hold in a corporation.

Melvin W. Aldredge, A&P chairman, said he was the only active company officer now serving as a trustee of the foundation.

On other topics, Aldredge said that about half of the company's has been covered by insurance. Fire loss in the 5,000 A&P buildings in North and South America has averaged about $1.7-million a year in the last six years.

There was little comment at the meeting about recent reports of Mafia efforts, including burning stores, to pressure A&P to stock an unnamed brand of detergent.

The 540 stockholders at the meeting reelected 16 directors and selected independent auditors.

Stockholders also voted to create a new class of preferred stock without par value and to increase the common stock from 28 million to 40 million shares at the same par value of $1.

TREATED FOR WOUNDS — Elaine Bonnet, 27 of Lodi, Calif., is treated in Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem after suffering wounds when Arab artillery peppered a beach on the Dead Sea 20 miles east of Jerusalem. Her friend, Shirley Anderson, 25, of Rochester, N. Y., the daughter of a New York legislator, was killed in the shelling, the first foreign tourist in Arab-Israeli hostilities since the end of 1967. Administration Will Seek Permission To Use Federal Troops on Campuses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration plans to ask Congress for legislation to clear the way for use of U.S. marshals or federal troops to put down campus riots. The outline of the administration's plan for handling campus disorders was revealed to a House committee Tuesday. Its basic concept is that it would allow college administrators to go to federal courts to help in opening up campuses closed by dissident students. And because the federal courts are involved, U.S. marshals, backed up by troops if necessary, could be used to see any antiriot order issued by the court is carried out. In addition, the plan would beef up the present law which provides a student must lose any federal aid for two years if he is convicted by a court of rioting and the conviction is upheld by a college hearing. Under the Nixon plan no court conviction would be needed and the aid would be lost for up to five years, instead of two. The plan has not been drafted into legislation yet but it was revealed to the House Education Committee by Robert C. Mardian, general counsel of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He said the proposal was prepared by his agency with help from the White House and the Justice Department.

The committee has been deadlocked in trying to come up with a campus measure of its own. Two lawsuits were filed against a senate subcommittee investigating campus and city riots, Tuesday, both aimed at blocking part of its investigative powers. U.S. District Court Judge Howard F. Corcoran of Washington quickly dismissed one, filed by SDS. The other was filed in a New York court by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Panther Dropouts Testify Before Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two dropouts from the Black Panthers were called to Capitol Hill today by Senate investigators looking for possible links between the militant black power group and campus and urban violence.

As was the case in the first two days of hearings, the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations, chaired by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., declined to reveal in advance the names of the witnesses called to testify on the leadership and plans of the Black Panthers.

The panel's previous hearings were devoted to the radical Students for a Democratic Society, which has also come under new attack by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover for allegedly following a Communist blueprint to disrupt war production.

Hoover, writing in a labor union newspaper, said the summer

"work-in" manual issued by SDS is actually a document originally drafted by pro-Red Chinese American Communists. Hoover's charges against SDS are being published in the weekly newspaper of the million-member AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists.

The Associated Press last month described the "work-in" manual in detail, including plans to persuade workers to stop war production.

"Closing down our schools is not enough," the SDS instructions said. "Workers produce and move the goods that are used in the war and it is they who are primarily forced to fight the war. They can stop it."

In writing to the Machinists, Hoover said SDS wants to convince workers "that this country is 'rotten,' 'sick,' and 'dis-eased,' and therefore should be destroyed."

The SDS has no respect for unions and their efforts to protect the workers and work for the best interests of their country. To the SDS, unions are part of the "Establishment," and should be destroyed along with the government, the military, private industry and law enforcement," the FBI chief said. More testimony about alleged Communist involvement in the SDS came Tuesday from a detective chief and a police infiltrator who appeared before the Senate subcommittee.

Body Found, Believed To Be Missing Girl

WILTON, Conn. (UPI) — The body of a little girl, tentatively identified as 10-year-old Mary K. Mount, missing since May 27, was found by two teen-age fishermen Tuesday not far from a road dubbed the "highway to nowhere."

MARY MOUNT

Wilton police, who made the tentative identification, said that as yet no members of the Mount family had seen the body. An autopsy was scheduled for today.

The body was discovered against a rock and in a decomposed state in an almost inaccessible pine grove, about six miles from the New Canaan home of Dr. Joseph Mount, father of the missing blue-eyed, blonde girl whose abduction "ouched off a massive manhunt."

"We walked up and stopped dead in our tracks," said Alphonse Cotoia, 16, a sophomore at New Canaan High School and member of the football team. He and Gary Brown, also 16, a classmate and fellow athlete, had been looking for a stream to fish.

The area where the body was found is off Route 106 and the quickest access to it is via the partially paved Old Huckleberry Road. Route 106 is referred to by local residents as the "highway to nowhere" because it travels from New Canaan to Wilton in an indirect way.

Running Out of Steam

Can it be that the high tide of campus violence is about to ebb?

Available evidence would seem to be against it, what with additional schools being swept into the battle and agitation now reaching down to the high school level.

Two well-placed Washington observers, however, have come up in recent days with independent but similar predictions that, if not an end, at least a sharp tapering off of campus turmoil may not be long in coming.

Both Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., fresh from the commencement-speaking circuit and campus-roots contact with students, and Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch see quieter times coming. And both offer the same basic reason—the waning effectiveness of minority extremists in manipulating for their own ends the vast and increasingly resistant majority of moderate students.

Finch believes the moderates are beginning to mobilize against the extremists. Ribicoff, who believes the campus upheaval will leave some good behind in a long-overdue reform of the university structure, sees 1969 as a landmark year. "I think you'll see a waning of SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) and other anarchistic societies."

This could be merely so much more wishful thinking, with much worse still to come. SDS, however, seems to be going out of its way to give some point to predictions of its decline.

It is reported in the throes of a leadership struggle between two dogmatically opposed factions reflecting, to some extent, the Moscow-Peking split in world communism. One group, with Maoist sympathies, wants to hold to the classic Marxist high road to revolution via mobilization of the working classes. The other, Berkeley-based and believing prosperous American workers are infertile ground for revolution, disagrees to the point that it is in the process of splitting off to set up a new organization.

Although SDSers, who seem to be a pretty humorless lot to start with, are not likely to appreciate the joke, there is some humor in the spectacle of a power struggle within their ranks. In the early days, they prided themselves on being virtually leaderless, arriving at decisions by some process akin to telepathy or intellectual osmosis that obviated the necessity of a formal organization.

In any event, it seems the young revolutionaries are learning the hard way a few of history's lessons about revolutions—that trouble really begins when they become institutionalized and that they have a way of devouring their creators.

President Nixon finally has the hideaway working quarters he has yearned for. They are in the old State, War and Navy building across from the West wing of the White House. He has a place of seclusion where he can get out his yellow lawyer's pad and jot down ideas or work closely with his staff.

When a pacemaker machine was switched on to take over from a patient's heart during open-heart surgery, pop music poured in from a local radio station. The patient pulled through, but it led to an investigation of radio interference. This happened in London but it could happen here.

David Lawrence Says Ruling in Powell Case Confounds the Public

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States has again resorted to a maze of technicalities in deciding an important case, and has ruled that representative Adam Clayton Powell was improperly excluded from the House of Representatives. Stress was placed only on the argument that Mr. Powell conformed to the constitutional requirement as to age, citizenship and residency in the state from which he was elected. But there is another part of the Constitution which the high court brushed aside. Article I, section 5, says:

"Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members and, with the concurrence of two thirds, expel a member."

What is "disorderly behavior"? The High court gave little weight to the report of a committee of the House which stated that "Powell had asserted an unwarranted privilege and immunity from the processes of the courts of New York; that he had wrongfully diverted House funds for the use of others and himself; and that he had made false reports on expenditures of foreign currency to the committee on House Administration."

Though Powell was found by the House committee to be guilty of these offenses, the Supreme Court confined itself to whether the procedures used to exclude him from his seat were proper. Yet whether it is called "exclusion" or "expulsion," the House has a constitutional right to deny a seat to a person who has been adjudged to have committed wrongdoings.

Considerable emphasis was placed by the court on the assertion that each House of Representatives, elected for two years, is a separate entity, and that the denial of membership by the 90th Congress "cannot be treated as an expulsion." It further said that the voters, merely by the election, had obtained the seat for Mr. Powell and that, though there was more than a two-thirds vote cast against him by the House of Representatives, he nevertheless was entitled to membership.

The high court declared that the House is "without authority to exclude any person, duly elected by his constituents, who meets all the requirements for membership expressly prescribed in the Constitution." The court said that it "will not speculate what the result might have been if Powell had been seated and expulsion proceedings subsequently instituted."

To the American people, the difference between "exclude" and "expel" will hardly appear to be material to the main point — namely, that Powell was adjudged by the House to be guilty of "disorderly behavior" and was not regarded as qualified for membership in the Congress.

The House of Representatives can still ask the Department of Justice to conduct proceedings with respect to the misuse of funds, and, of course, even without such action, Congress has a right to interpret for itself what is meant by "disorderly behavior" for which a member can be expelled.

The whole case would seem to be one which leaves the impression that, no matter what offense an individual has committed, he can still become a member of the House of Representatives if he is elected and is a resident of a certain state and has attained a certain age. Members of Congress can, therefore, engage in any kind of wrongdoing, but if re-elected by their states or districts, they are eligible to take their seats.

The public is not likely to agree that anyone guilty of the offenses listed after a special House committee investigation is entitled to a seat whether or not the offenses were committed during a preceding Congress. For the fact still remains that each House is the true judge not only of the "qualifications" of its members but whether they are guilty of any "disorderly behavior."

The main point made by the lawyers who defended the House of Representatives in the case before the Supreme Court was that "the House may expel a member for any reason whatsoever and that, since a two-thirds vote was obtained, the procedure by which Powell was denied his seat in the 90th Congress should be regarded as an expulsion not an exclusion."

But the Supreme Court apparently refuses to let the House make its own rules, as the Constitution prescribes, or to take whatever steps it deems necessary to punish "disorderly behavior."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Dear Graduate: You are now a B.S., the opposite of what you may turn out to be. You are around 22 years of age and you know everything about everything. Well, almost. You are now at the bottom of a sunny hill, I'm across the peak, lounging in the dark cool of evening.

If you would listen for a moment, I would tell you a truth. An insidious truth. Your true and only enemy is the clock. It is a slow instrument which says nothing but "tick" and "tock," but it will someday bow your head, muzzle your mouth and bewilder your mind. It will take the bloom of youth and confidence from your face and replace it with the tic-tac-toe games of time.

This is the function of the clock. It will not retreat one second in all the millennia to come. It will cut you down, replace your future with a past, and put you under the sod. At the age of 60 you will have spent 20 years sleeping, 20 more growing up, and 20 trying to leave your mark on our cave.

The clock has a round, almost cherubic face with hands which creep around its cheeks. If you stare at it, you will see the larger of the two hands snap from one minute to the next, and while you were staring, you wasted one of the 36,800,000 minutes the life insurance actuary asserts that, with luck, you will enjoy.

Your time of life is the most difficult. It is a period of transition between the storage of acts and philosophies and the use of them. You have been given tools by dedicated teachers and parents, and each of you will bend these tools to his individual aspirations. Would you be shocked if I were to tell you that you are a member of the wrong family of animals — the one which invented initiative thinking, deduction, and the recording of experience through the use of alphabets and numerals?

His is the only breed which kills its own. In World War I, it required $50,000 to kill one man. Today a multiple-headed hydrogen bomb can kill a million people at a dollar a head. Am I being cynical if I say that this is progress?

You distrust my generation. Keep your distrust. Hang onto it. True progress comes with lonely meditation, and you begin by murmuring ten thousand times: "I am my brother's keeper. I am," you must do a better job than we did, or you are going to lose your playground.

And yet I do not apologize for my generation. Take a look at the record. We are responsible for penicillin, the diesel engine, the jet, radio, television, flights to the moon, the sulfonamides, bigger ears of corn, stronger wheat, the heart transplant, creature comforts beyond belief — oh yes, the Pill.

One more thing. We spawned you. Once, you looked up to us with hope. Now we look to you with hope. You must realize the wheels on this planet. Nothing matches. Tongues are alien to each other. The weak fear the strong; the strong spend their precious blood trying to outgun each other. A whiff of odorless gas killed 6,000 sheep in Utah.

Use the clock to correct these things. Do not permit it to use you. In 25 years you and your fellows will be running the world. There is little time for you to get ready. If you fail, your children will be cynics and will grow up to spit in your eye.

The United Nations is a conversation piece, men speak with bitterness and we feel safe as long as they keep talking. This forces us to fear dead silence. The trouble with man is that he is basically a reactor. He waits for something to happen, and then plans to do something to remedy it. He has never learned to plan his future in concert with other nations.

You can correct this. Don't shake your head no. You must. The reason why God permits 102 boys to be born for every hundred females, is because He knows that two boys will die at maturity, thus making the score even. You must concede that this is planning of a superior order.

While you have been reading this, you have wasted four and a half precious minutes of your life...

Drew Pearson Says Banker Congressmen Could Block High-Interest Probe

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, Tex., plans to dig into a very important, little known factor behind the 8½ per cent prime interest rate charged by the big New York banks.

Patman has been a lifelong foe of high interest rates, points out that the zooming rates have increased the national debt to a point where it costs the taxpayers $15 billion more per year.

But, in this case, Patman has tracked down the fact that the big New York banks had complained to the Federal Reserve Board that its anti-inflation measures were hurting them more than smaller banks. The big banks found it difficult to raise the money required by their blue-chip customers. So rather than risk a drop in their own profits, the big banks upped their interest rates to the highest point in American history.

They have also warned privately that there will be more rate increases if the Federal Reserve Board continues the tight-money pressure.

Patman proposes to probe this. He is worried over what higher interest rates will do to the installment buying of homes, automobiles, refrigerators, TV sets, and other appliances. It could, he thinks, lead to a serious recession.

Whether Patman can stage a probe, however, will be interesting. It so happens that at least 100 Congressmen own stock in banks. Several others conceal banking interests in the name of relatives. Even more congressmen collect legal fees from financial institutions. A spot check of 50 Congressional law firms revealed that 40 of them represent banks.

In addition, the American Bankers Association, Mortgage Bankers Association, American Industrial Bankers Association, the U.S. Savings and Loan League, have been quite generous in handing out lecture fees to members of Congress. The U.S. Savings and Loan League, for example, paid Republican Senate Leader Everett Dirksen a whopping $3,500 fee for a speech.

Patman's own Banking and Currency Committee is also stacked with members who own stock in banks. It will be interesting to see whether he is able to get his investigation off the ground.

Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.: The new book "The War Business" by George Thayer. It reveals how the USA has fomented war by dumping $50 billion worth of arms around the world in the last 15 years. The Pakistan-Indian war was fought with American equipment on both sides. When an embargo was placed on arms to Pakistan, West Germany sold Pakistan 90 F-86s furnished it by the USA and with USA blessing.... CBS, on the lookout for gun-running TV footage, underwrote an anti-Castro invasion force, then pulled out at an overall loss of $100,000.... In many cases, nations got the wrong weapons, such as Saudi Arabia which purchased Lightning jets, though it had no pilots to fly them; and mobile anti-tank guns, though none of its neighbors operated tank units to threaten Guinea.... Peru purchased two old cruisers for $5 million each, though it had trained personnel to operate only one at a time.... The demise of Chancellor Erhard's government in West Germany in 1966 was due largely to his purchase of American military equipment which Germany did not need, did not want, and could not afford.... Even Congressman Rivers, No. 1 protector of the military, will learn a few things from this book.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, president of Nationalist China, has vetoed the Nixon administration's proposal to recognize Mongolia. Mongolia is the pro-Russian desert country, once part of China, which forms a buffer between China and Russia. The State Department wanted to have more American influence in this strategic part of the world. Our Asian allies also favored extending our influence there.

But there was one objector — namely, Chiang Kai-shek. And his influence with President Nixon was enough to override all the White House advisers and all our Asiatic allies.

When Nixon was a practicing lawyer he represented Pepsi-Cola. And when Coca-Cola was about to get its foot on the island of Formosa, Nixon flew to Formosa and persuaded Chiang Kai-shek to ban Coke, give Pepsi a monopoly.

Merry-Go-Round

Dean Acheson, the ex-Secretary of State, has a forgiving memory. He is about the only Democrat supporting Nixon in Nixon's criticism of the military critics.... In the 1950s Richard Nixon, then Vice President, described Dean Acheson as presiding over "the college of cowardly communist containment...." Sen. Stephen Young, the Ohio Democrat who says he's not going to retire at the age of 80, has a sharp memory. He is probably the youngest member of the Senate in point of vigor — and courage.... Sen. Tom Dodd has a long memory. When the big Belgian-French copper interests were trying to separate Katanga from the Congo, Dodd delivered canned speeches which appeared to have been written for him by the Katanga lobby. One man who opposed him was McMurtie Godley, U.S. ambassador to the Congo. Last week Dodd held up the confirmation of Godley to be U.S. ambassador to Laos.... A trek of Washington socialites to Mississippi to celebrate the inauguration of Charles Evers as the first Negro mayor in Mississippi is exactly what won't help Evers in Mississippi. Nevertheless, a lot of Washingtonians, headed by Ethel Kennedy, are planning to fly to Mississippi in special planes.... Speaker John McCormack, scion of a large and struggling family in South Boston, never dreamed he would have a school named after him. But the other day he addressed by telephone the graduating class of the John W. McCormack school in Boston.

John L. Lewis: He Helped Fire Up the Economy of U.S.

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The press has noted with some detail the battles won and lost by the late John L. Lewis, for 40 years head of the United Mine Workers.

The bloody battles of his youth were duly noted.

But what was omitted in most accounts was the extraordinary philosophy of this man, who was in such great measure responsible for major changes in the status of labor in the stormy first half of this century.

This reporter years back had the opportunity of talking at some length with Lewis, at a time well after he had achieved his major successes.

Unlike a great many labor leaders of his time, Lewis did not oppose automation. He encouraged it. He did not fight for make-work devices that would "save" jobs.

This attitude seems like common sense today in many circles. Then it was revolutionary in the labor movement.

The more automation, the more profits, Lewis reasoned. The greater the profit a company made, the higher the wages and other benefits he could ask for his men.

It doesn't matter, Lewis told this reporter, how much this automation cuts the force of miners. In the end, automation means more jobs somewhere in industry. It means better working conditions. "What I'm interested in is not how many miners there are — but how much the miners get."

Lewis got the money he asked for his miners. The coal industry in large areas was modernized in his era at a quite considerable pace — at a time when, it will be recalled, some other major industries were growing obsolescent in their methods.

It may be that the Lewis leadership made possible modernization in a wide range of industries at a pace that has made it possible for the United States to move up its standard of living so rapidly while bearing increasingly heavy world responsibilities. He was certainly a factor.

The war is not yet won, of course. In part, today's inflated living costs are a result of the snail's pace at which some industries have modernized.

The causes for this lag are numerous. The costs of building a home to live in these days, for example, have increased beyond all expectation. In part, this is because of obsolete building codes, codes which vary so greatly from place to place that mass construction becomes exceedingly difficult, the high cost of borrowing money. But extra-ordinary make-work practices (which in some areas limit beyond all reason the amount of brick a man may lay in a day or the area of wall a man may paint) are a major factor.

As mentioned above, the Lewis philosophy was that these work restrictions cheat the laborer himself, because they limit company profits and therefore the amount of pay workmen can ask for and get.

What's needed today is more of this Lewis insight. Most companies which today complain of higher labor costs would not complain nearly so much if these wage increases were accompanied by an easing of those make-work restrictive labor practices which cause the workman to be less efficient than he otherwise could be and which do not improve his lot.

Russians Have Outside Chance

By TOM TIEDE

(NEA Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Will the Russians be on the moon to greet us?

At this late date the question seems preposterous. All of the facts say the moon race is over and we've won. Everything indicates that when we land up there next month, the Russians will have to be content to watch it on TV.

Yet, as the moon race itself proves, nothing is impossible. And men who study space accomplishments closest are not conceding anything.

One of these men is Dr. Charles Sheldon, a staff member of the House Space Committee, a sometimes White House space adviser and one of the more down-to-earth Russian space-watchers. Dr. Sheldon doesn't think the U.S.S.R. will beat us to the moon. He feels that time, good judgment and the odds work against the competitors. But still, on the other hand...

"Well," says Sheldon, a thin, gray, enthusiastic man, "I suppose the odds of us landing first on the moon are 98 per cent or better. However, I must say this: I think the Russians still have an outside chance."

The Russians' chance, according to Sheldon, is based on their willingness to gamble. Sheldon says their space history shows an aversion to open risk, but for the sake of prestige they might now be willing to try.

As of now, the Russians have never displayed a launch vehicle large enough to propel a lunar landing payload (285,000 pounds). Their biggest known rocket is the Proton, a mere infant compared to America's Saturn V. But there is always the possibility, in this case a real one, that the competitors have a larger rocket ready but experts, notably Dr. Werner von Braun, have broadly hinted as much. Von Braun has suggested that the U.S.S.R. may have a secret launch vehicle with a 10 to 14 million pound thrust capability — almost twice the Saturn V power.

Sheldon says this possibility is pregnant. In fact, Sheldon probably knows if the vehicle is real or not. He has access to all U.S. space intelligence, which is classified information.

If such a superrocket does exist in Russia, says Sheldon, Russia might use it to launch an unmanned space ship into orbit. Then a Proton rocket might fire a rendezvous rocket, with inhabitants, to link in space. And a continuing moon trip might follow.

Industrial Giants Send Oil Scouts to Alaska

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Washington Correspondent
PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska — (NEA) — Thirteen industrial giants have set up bases here on the top of the world and, outwardly anyway, seem to be manufacturing suspense, skulduggery and a frustrating form of noisy silence.

Actually, they are here to draw oil. The promise of billions of barrels (and billions of dollars) lie beneath this fathomless permafrost.

If the promise holds, the world will rumble. The politics, power and influence of many government and peoples will be altered.

And yet, with all earth waiting, the report from here is largely blank. Except for the statistics required by government regulations, none of the 13 oil companies will say what is really happening.

All the oil sites are guarded. Visitors aren't welcome. Fences obscure some of the riggings. And the radio communication is often coded.

The local word is mum. Everybody knows there's oil here — but how much and where? Not even the roustabouts will comment on the pertinent.

As might be expected, the reason for the secrecy is economic. Oil firms are closing their mouths and holding their breaths until autumn, when the state of Alaska is scheduled to put 700,000 important new oil acres up for lease. Rival companies will be bidding for what they believe to be the richest land — and thus do not want to show their hand early.

But while all of the companies are working to keep their own cards hidden, they are also working to see what is being dealt to everybody else.

It's all kind of a game, really, called industrial espionage. The game is very popular here. Everybody plays it. Officials looking at rival oil sites through binoculars fully expect to see the rivals looking back. Big companies and small spy on one another, like military combatants, to determine just what the other guy's got.

Some of the espionage is legal. Some of it's not. But nobody complains. As one British Petroleum employee says: "Who's going to cast the first stone?"

The snooping work is usually handled, or at least supervised, by specialists called "oil scouts." Some companies will hire as many as a dozen or 15 of the men to act, literally, as the eyes and ears of the outfit.

Oil scouts are as old as the industry — and their history is tainted but colorful. At one time they were little more than eavesdroppers hiding behind trees. Anything went. There was no etiquette; there were no rules.

One legendary scout in Canada was supposed to have hidden under the frozen floorboards of a competitor's oil rig. He remained there for 48 chilly hours, taking notes. As a result he lost several toes to frostbite — but when he got out of surgery, he was given $50,000 for his information.

CONVICTED — James Meredith, the first Negro to graduate from the University of Mississippi, was convicted in criminal court in New York of failing to provide tenants in a building he owns with proper services, such as hot water. Meredith, 33, who did not appear in court, will be sentenced July 15 and faces a 15-day jail term and $200 fine on each of two violations of the city's real property law. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Another scout, also legend, is said to have married a competitor's ugly daughter in Louisiana, then divorced her after his spy job was finished. Unfortunately, the competitor put two and two together — and the story is that an old bayou rig now marks the scout's grave.

Today in Alaska (and everywhere else), oil scouts tend to be less impulsive but every bit as persistent as their forefathers. Representatives of the International Oil Scout Association (4,000 members) say the brothers are smart, sharp, "and dig like hell for what they want."

What they want, of course, is everything. So they spend endless hours poring over courthouse records, newspaper accounts and public statistics. They read seismograph reports, record land leases, file drilling permits and completion records. "You got to have good eyes," says one Alaskan scout, "and it helps if your rear end is strong, too."

Now and then, scouts say, some of the old physical heroics take place. But mostly they are passe. For one thing, most oil sites are tightly secured now and nobody, hero or not, wants his nose broken.

But even broken noses are passing from the oil scout scene. There is now a kind of honor among industry spies. No longer are site-snoopers captured and thrown naked into outhouse holes or icy rivers.

Today, though the stakes are higher and the rewards, too, oil spies are courteous, even friendly, to one another. "After all," says one of them, "why should I fight another scout? He's an honest businessman — just like me. He's a respectable family man — just like me. And, besides, if I 'pal' him up, there's a good chance he might slip and tell me something."

Assignments Given To State Commission

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Senate and Assembly assignments to the newly created temporary state commission to study violence and unrest on campus were completed Tuesday.

Only three members appointed by Governor Rockefeller were needed to complete the roster of the $100,000 commission. The governor, in South America on tour for President Nixon, said it would be a week or ten days before his names for the commission are processed.

Sen. Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, R-Niagara Falls, said senators named to the commission included Edward J. Speno, R-East Meadow, John E. Flynn, R-Yonkers and Albert B. Lewis, D-Brooklyn.

On Monday, Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, R-Montauk, announced he had asked Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson, R-Hornell, to begin immediate organization of the commission. Other assemblymen to serve on the nine-member commission included Alvin M. Suchin, R-

Dobbs Ferry, and William F. Passanante, D-New York.

The commission is empowered to select its own chairman and vice chairman from among its members. It is to make a report of its findings and recommendations covering needs, plans and programs to the governor and legislature by Feb. 1, 1970.

The law creating the commission said its study and investigation shall include, but not be limited to: The manner in which incidents of riots and violence originated; the concern of students for changes in the structure of institutions of higher learning; the need for legislation to prevent the recurrence of student unrest and violence.

Troopers Called To Quell Riot At Kansas Pen

LANSING, Kan. (UPI) — Rioting broke out among the 1,392 prisoners in the Kansas State Penitentiary today, bringing a call for 100 state troopers to help.

The Lansing Police Department confirmed prisoners were rioting but said it had no details except prison officials had sent out a call for gas masks.

The 100 troopers were put on a stand-by basis near the prison which is located only a few miles from the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary.

Police said the disturbance erupted about 7:30 a.m. The number of prisoners and the number of cell blocks involved was undetermined, police said. The Leavenworth County sheriff's office reported it had sent its entire force to the scene.

In Topeka, the office of the state penal director, Charles McAtee, said he and his staff had gone to Lansing.

NOMINATED — Dr. Lewis M. Branscomb, 42, of Boulder, Colo., has been nominated to be Director of the National Bureau of Standards, Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans announced Tuesday. Dr. Branscomb, an internationally-known atomic physicist and a career federal scientist-administrator, will assume his new duties on the retirement of Dr. Allen V. Astin, a 37-year veteran at the Bureau. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Pay Raise Due In July for Federal Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 5 million federal workers and military personnel will get pay raises in July, boosting their income a total of $3.3 billion a year.

President Nixon ordered the pay raise Tuesday as the final step in the 1967 Pay Reform Act which was designed to bring federal salaries in line with private industry.

The new increase is an average 9.1 per cent jump in the pay of some 1.9 million white collar employees, Foreign Service and Veterans Administration medical personnel. The big clerk-carrier level of rank-and-file postal workers will receive 4.1 per cent more.

This brings to 18.5 per cent the average increase for white collar civilian federal employees since the 1967 law took effect.

Two Killed In Car, Truck Crash Upstate

FORT ANN, N.Y. (UPI) — Joseph F. Golden of Wyckoff, N.J. and his 14-year-old son, Timothy, were killed when their car and a tank truck carrying propane gas collided on Route 149 in this Washington County community Tuesday night.

State police said the truck, driven by William H. Boyle, 26, of Nassau, Rensselaer County, struck a cow on the highway and then collided with the Golden auto. Boyle and two other passengers in Golden's car were hospitalized with injuries suffered in the freak accident.

Troopers said the tanker trailer broke loose from the tractor on impact, skidded 80 feet down the road and sprung a leak. There was no fire and the propane leak was sealed a short time later.

The Golden family lives at 428 Kelly Court. Boyle resides at RD 2, Mead Road.

Outline Moon Flag Planting Arrangements

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six hours after man first lands on the moon next month, astronaut Neil Armstrong will hoist a nylon, 3-by-5-foot American flag on an 8-foot pole, and plant it in the lunar crust.

The flag will be stretched outward, in a simulation of flying, by a spring device made necessary because there is no wind on the moon.

And because there is "no wind, no rain, nothing to knock it down," the space agency said Tuesday, the banner may fly forever—or at least until man starts colonizing his natural satellite in the years beyond the horizon.

The flag planting will take place after Armstrong, commander of Apollo 11, steps out on the lunar surface around 2 a.m. EDT July 21. The landing craft itself is scheduled to land on the moon's surface the evening before.

Federal Spending Ceiling Of $191 Million Foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two houses as Congress strives to eliminate from the bill a provision repealing the ceiling enacted last year on federal employment. The Nixon administration favors repeal.

Several other amendments also remained for consideration today, including one by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., to add $47.5 million to the $7.5 million approved by the Appropriations Committee for the Neighborhood Youth Corps' summer jobs program in urban ghettos.

The spending ceiling in the bill starts at $187.9 billion—$5 billion below the House and administration figures—but brings this up to $191 billion by exempting a number of programs action, Congress could at any time lift spending restrictions for a given agency.

Byrd said his proposal requires a $5 billion cut in what are termed "controlable items" such as the $52.5 billion in non-Vietnam defense spending and the $33.7 billion in other federal programs.

Last year Congress voted a $6 billion spending cut which was carried out by the Johnson administration. It was just about offset, however, by a $6 billion increase in the exempted items.

List Exemptions

The exemptions include such things as farm price supports, public assistance and medicare, social security and other retirement programs, vocational rehabilitation payments, costs of Congress and the federal judiciary, veterans benefits and interest on the national debt.

The House bill sets the spending ceiling at the $192.9 billion level but provides that it would change every time Congress reduces or increases an appropriations bill, or votes a supplemental money measure.

Thus, by its own subsequent action, Congress could at any

Sex, Violence Part of Hippie Street Scene

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A hippie "happening" which included performances of the sex act in a public street erupted into violence when police tried to break it up.

More than 40 city, county and state police finally swept across the University of Michigan campus and adjoining streets Tuesday night to clear the area of about 1,500 persons, including students.

Eleven policemen were injured by rocks, bottles and other missiles. One officer was hit by a fire bomb. Another suffered a serious kidney injury. Throwing of rocks and debris continued into this morning.

Police retaliated with tear gas charges and arrested 39 adults and three juveniles. Two women were charged with malicious destruction of police cars.

Robben Fleming, the university president, spent three hours walking between police lines and groups of students, trying to prevent further violence.

asked the city administration Tuesday for permission to stage another happening. Permission was refused and police gathered to enforce the ban.

"There were numerous type things going on tonight that were not the type of thing to do in public," declared Police Chief Walter Krasny.

Witnesses said at least two couples performed the sex act in view of a large crowd.

When police tried to clear the area, they were greeted with rocks and bottles. They eventually called for reinforcements of county and state police.

Fleming said, "Hood and obvious nonstudent types were throwing objects at the police rather than University of Michigan students."

Man Fined $100 After Posing as Chiropractor

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass. (AP) — Howard Carr, 57, of nearby Millerton, N.Y., was fined $100 Tuesday on his plea of no contest to a charge of illegally being a chiropractor.

Carr was arrested a month ago at an office rented in Sheffield, the district attorney's office said. He appeared in district court.

RED HOOK TEACHERS HONORED — Hilda Aiken and John Havko, flanked by District Principal Russell Keefe (L) and County Superintendent Roscoe Williams, were honored at a joint retirement dinner Friday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Miss Aiken retires after 29 years in elementary education and high school social studies; Havko has taught science at Red Hook for 21 years. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Campus Violence
Editor, The Freeman:

In the wake of recent campus disturbances, a popular attitude of "kick-those-punks-in-the-teeth, and never-mind-what-the-causes-were seems to have regrettably gained momentum across the country, as well as here amongst our fellow citizenry and local politicians. Such simplistic "reasoning" on any subject never does any good.

May I quote an editorial from the June Maclean's (Canada's National Magazine.) Titled "The Disturbing Backlash from the Campus Revolt" part of it goes:

"The campus revolt has, in large part, sprung from valid causes and, up the education system to an examination long overdue. The challenge by the student activists forced us to look and, having looked to see as the child saw the Emperor had no clothes — our institutions as they are. And what we have seen is that the curricula and teaching methods in some facilities and the structure of university life on many of our campuses are anachronistic, authoritarian and needful of change."

Has this ever occurred to Bell, Rolison and The Freeman editorial writers? Are those who scream blindly for repression and kick-their-heads-in acting any more constructively in the long run than the S.D.S.'ers who burn buildings and barrage the police with rocks? We have to deal with the effects now—but can't we try and deal with the CAUSES, too?

Yours truly,
RICHARD H. ROSIEHAN

Editor's note: Campus disorders are perpetrated by a small but determined minority whose object is not to reform but to destroy existing institutions. The majority of the millions of Americans on campus neither participate nor sympathize with campus violence. We reiterate that colleges should be placed under strong pressure to control these ruthless few from making a mockery of education and if they can't deal effectively with them then civil authorities should be allowed to do the job. Although there may be injustices on campus that remain to be remedied, the root of the violence is by radical students and their allies, many of whom go from campus to campus to incite revolt. This is the main CAUSE.

Girl Without Face Undergoes Surgery

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Deborah Fox sat up in bed for the first time since a 13½-hour operation to rebuild her face, and she smiled.

"They keep shooting me with those needles," she said—her biggest complaint.

"But soon I'll be able to get up and walk around."

Deborah is the 13-year-old Tennessee girl, born virtually without a face, who was operated on by six surgeons at Johns Hopkins Hospital last Wednesday.

Using some techniques for the first time, they literally changed the configuration of her skull bones, moving her eyes from the sides to the center of her face, and began rebuilding her nose.

It was the 37th—and by far the most major—operation for Deborah, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fox of near Chattanooga.

"Did you read my poetry?" she asked a newsman Tuesday at the hospital.

"Yes."

"Did you like it?"

"Yes."

She referred to a poem she wrote and titled, "Spring."

One verse goes:
"The breath of spring
"Is like a bell that rings
"The crocus and tulip rare
"Spring from the ground so bare."

Deborah, who has an IQ of about 120, never has attended classes a day in her life, but will be in the 8th grade this fall. She has been taught at home.

Dr. Milton Edgerton, chief plastic surgeon on the case and one of the six who performed the operation, said later that Deborah's vision was all right, and Deborah began reading a book that was given to her Tuesday.

Deborah faces more operations, on her nose and mouth. She hopes to resume her schooling this fall, toward her goal of eventually working with handicapped children.

But, like a typical teen-ager, she laughed with glee when told that children in Baltimore don't get out of school until the end of this week—and Deborah's school already is out for the year.

Billion Dollar Babysitter Guards Building At Fort Knox

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — U.S. Treasury mint in Philadelphia in 1961 to head Fort Knox, talks little about himself, but will expound at length about the depository's history.

He watches over a nondescript two-story granite, steel and concrete building about 30 miles southwest of Louisville. Within the structure, which cost $560,000 to build in 1937, is a two-level steel and concrete vault, divided into compartments and reachable only through a 20 ton door.

Within the vault are about 500,000 gold bars. Each weighs 27½ pounds, is 7 inches long, 3½ inches wide and 1½ inches thick. Each is worth about $14,000.

Harkin, who came from the U.S. Treasury mint in Philadelphia in 1961 to head Fort Knox, talks little about himself, but will expound at length about the depository's history.

Fort Knox the military post—currently more than 110,000 acres—was established in 1918 and named for Major Gen. Henry Knox. A World War I artillery training center, the post was deactivated and until '932, used only as a summer training camp.

In 1932 Fort Knox became a permanent military post, and during World War II it reached a peak strength of 90,000 soldiers. Today the post is home to 37,000 military personnel.

Although it lies within the military post, the depository is owned by the U.S. Treasury Department and is controlled by the Director of the mint.

Harkin says no one has ever attempted a robbery, and for good reason. Add to the building's construction, a high steel fence encircling it, machine gun-armed guards at each corner of the building and an unknown number of guards inside.

According to Harkin, the $7 billion in gold is less than half the total that was stored at Fort Knox in 1940. A gold drain—particularly since the early 1960s—has caused the supply to dwindle substantially.

New Farm Project: Desalting Water

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP) — Visitors from Russia, Belgium, England, Israel and other countries often motor up to Gilbert Dalpra's modest farm north of Denver.

They don't come to see his milk cows or to find out what kind of corn he's cultivating. They're interested in a project housed in a corrugated metal building that carries a sign, "U.S. Government Property."

The project is another cog in the giant U.S. Reclamation Bureau-sponsored program to get more fresh water for a growing nation.

It consists of pilot plants, red-wood storage tanks and other equipment used to desalt brackish water, which is pumped from a deep underground basin on Dalpra's farm.

Dalpra benefits in at least two ways: he is paid for leasing part of his land to the government, and he can use as much of the 5,000 to 6,000 gallons of pure water piped each day from the desalting plant to his farmhouse and his cow barn.

Engineers say the process used at the Dalpra farm also could provide another means of desalting sea water. But no one has determined yet the cost of operating such a plant on a large-scale basis.

The project is divided into two steps: refining pure water from the brackish stuff pumped from three farm wells; and finding the best way of disposing of brine and other wastes left after the purifying process.

The latter step, says Charles B. Masin, acting head of the saline waste demineralization section in the Reclamation Bureau's Denver office, "is a dynamic situation that is touching off tremendous research and investigation" throughout the country.

For each 100 gallons of well water pumped into the desalting units, 75 gallons become satisfyingly drinkable. The rest is piped into a pond 150 yards south of Dalpra's house. This briny water in turn is pumped into 10 metal tanks, each 18 feet in diameter, near the pond.

The floor of each tank is covered with a different material and tests are run to determine which best prevents seepage of the greenish waste water.

Dalpra, in the meantime, says he has benefited in another way during the nine years of the experiment. Shortly after the project began, Dalpra says, he received bonuses from a grocery chain for the high butterfat and solids content in milk from his 75 cows.

"I fed them the same things other farmers around here feed their animals," Dalpra said. "So it must have been the water they drank."

Male Supremacy to Give Way in Famous London Restaurant

LONDON (UPI)—When the headwaiter saw a woman in his restaurant, he hurried forward in dismay and said: "Sorry, you can't stay here. The men would object."

The restaurant was the Captain's Table in Lloyd's Building, exclusive because no woman ever has lunched there. But this modern day remnant of male supremacy is shortly to fall when Lloyd's, hub of world insurance finally admits women as members.

Their entry next New Year's Day will be leaving them barred in the London business world only from the Stock Exchange.

For 200 years, men alone have dealt in this insurance market where almost any risk can be covered, from shipping to diamonds, from actresses' legs to the possibility of movie patrons dying of fright while watching a horror film.

Very Gradually

Lloyd's is getting used to the idea of women very gradually. This correspondent was allowed a special preview of the huge and famous room where 3,000 to 4,000 men daily conduct their multi-million pound transactions. They couldn't have stared more if I had dropped in from the moon.

Upstairs at the Captain's Table, headwaiter Fred Sellman was apologetic but adamant—no women allowed in before Jan. 1, 1970. He did relent to the point of a cup of coffee if consumed out of sight in a back office, which apparently was more leeway than Ginger Rogers received when a male member tried to get her in.

Come January, very few women will have the privilege of dining on steak and kidney pie followed by sherry trifle. A main qualification for Lloyd's membership is wealth—assets of at least 75,000 pounds ($180,000).

Twenty women, including 12 wives of existing members, have so far applied in the knowledge that Lloyd's would have them not out of love but for their money. They also have to be British.

The idea of letting them in is purely mercenary, said a Lloyd's spokesman. "The only way Lloyd's can keep up its capacity, cope with the business being presented, is to have women members. It's the money they represent."

They still will not be able to do everything a man can in insurance or have space in the marbled, galleried hall filled with row upon row of underwriters, sitting in wooden boxes like pews, discussing business pounds loss largely due to hurricane damage in the United States.

You must be able to lose 10,000 pounds a year without noticing it," said the Lloyd's spokesman. "Otherwise you would spend nights worrying. But, of course, these things go in cycles."

And this is what the new underwriter in The Room, woman comes in, you introduce women members will be letting themselves in for. They will be joining the syndicates as the people who put up the money, but will not be able to take part in the active business.

No Psychology

So they will not be allowed to judging which risks are good sex into it. You might get an and which bad. Nor will they be able to apply psychology or that risk but I do like her, so feminine charm to the broker's I'll take it. There's enough art of working out whom to money being lost as it is approach with what item and without this sort of imponderable being introduced into it."

Said the spokesman: If a Underwriter Charles Close-

Smith echoed the feeling. "Women control at least half the money in England because they generally live longer than men and inherit through their husband's will," he said. "We'd be very silly if we ignored this wealth."

But another big under writer,

Anthony William Gooda, who began at 15 and has been in the business 50 years, is opposed to women taking any part other than as a name" in a syndicate. "We can do quite well enough without the petticoat influence," he said.

Urban Buildings Need Money

Hospitals in Rural Areas Stand Half-Empty

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 150 hospitals built or expanded with federal aid are standing half-empty in the nation's rural areas while overcrowded urban hospitals plead for more money.

One large city hospital, built in 1894 and openly branded as a firetrap by officials, has had to wait five years for federal aid. A small mountain town in the same state got a new hospital promptly even though its old one was two-thirds empty.

A fresh fight is boiling up in the Senate to try to chop the rural favoritism out of the Hill-Burton aid program and channel more cash into the overcrowded hospitals of America's major cities. But the House has already voted against such a shift.

Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., a doctor, has called many half-empty rural hospitals a waste.

He said both politics and provincialism have played a role in passing out the federal aid. An Associated Press examination of the hospital aid program found examples like these:

—Soda Springs, Idaho, got $800,000 to help build a new and turned down four times for federal aid even though the danger to replace an old one that was only one-third full. The new hospital, which opened in March, remains half-empty.

—In Boise, Idaho, aging St. Alphonsus Hospital, the most crowded in the state, was turned down four times for federal aid even though the danger of a disastrous fire is so great that officials keep extending its license only a few weeks at a time.

—Bay Minette, Ala., has just received federal aid to pay for half of a $1.5 million hospital even though there are two other hospitals in the same rural area.

al government has just spent $1.1 million in a major remodeling of the half-empty Huey P. Long Charity Hospital. The facility exists for poor patients from nine parishes, or counties, in Louisiana where, the superintendent said, many hospitals refuse to admit needy patients who can't pay their bills.

—Scores of other rural hospitals built under the Hill-Burton program in towns like Romney, W. Va., Union Springs, Ala., and Durant, Miss., remain half-empty for an array of reasons. Even some doctors in the hospitals choose to go elsewhere when they get sick.

—No federal aid has been spent in the last 20 years to enlarge or improve New York's crowded Harlem Hospital in one of the poorest ghettos in the nation's largest city. Harlem is getting a new 777-bed hospital soon, but all the money is coming from state and local funds.

A total of 173 hospitals which have received $50 million in Hill-Burton aid over the past two decades are listed as half-empty or worse in the latest available American Hospital Association figures on occupancy rates. All but a handful are in rural areas.

The occupancy statistics had to be taken from the AHA's 1968 "Hospitals" guide because Hill-Burton officials in Washington don't keep track of whether the facilities they build are filled.

The Hill-Burton program feeds federal aid to the states which, in turn, pass out the money to hospitals to pay anywhere from one-third to more than half of construction or expansion costs.

The law favors the rural areas with an aid formula that squares the low-income level for a state. This means a rural state twice as poor as New York will get four times as much money per person.

The program was set up in the late 1940s to fill the critical needs of rural America for adequate hospitals. It has done the job well. But critics say the needs today have shifted to the cities and the program has not kept pace.

In the past 20 years, the nation's eight poorest states have made great gains in hospitals. But California, the nation's most populous state, has gone the opposite direction.

California has fallen behind all eight states with its average of 3.5 hospital beds per 1,000 persons, a rate that has slid so low it now matches what the national average was in 1950 when the program was just beginning.

The Senate health subcommittee will continue hearings Tuesday on proposals to pump more cash into the overcrowded and antiquated hospitals of the nation's cities. Nixon administration officials, who back more money for modernization, are scheduled to testify.

Rejected by House

However, the House already has rejected 75-51 this month an effort to change the aid formula and distribute the funds evenly according to population and income. Opponents complained the change would mean 32 rural states would get less money.

"That just makes Hill-Burton another pork barrel project, doesn't it? Let's call a spade a spade," said Dr. Terrell Carver, Idaho's state health administrator.

Carver said at the state level the fight among rural towns is fierce for new hospitals—whether needed or not—to attract more doctors and, hopefully, to bring more industry. He suggested sarcastically the program perhaps should be turned over to the Department of Commerce to run.

From his window Carver looks out on Boise's aging St. Alphonsus Hospital, one of the victims of the way Hill-Burton works. He said he checks each morning to make sure the hospital is still standing.

St. Alphonsus, which dates back to the frontier days of the 19th Century, is the most crowded hospital in the state, yet it is so unsafe that Idaho authorities will extend its license only 90 days at a time.

"The place is a firetrap," said Carver.

St. Alphonsus asked for $2 million federal aid in 1964 to build a new 200-bed hospital. It was turned down that year, and the next, and the next. Not until last year did Boise get the aid—and then there were more problems.

The ground-breaking is finally set for tonight, but will still be 1971 before the new facility is ready to replace the aging tin-dredbox hospital.

Has New Hospital

While St. Alphonsus waits, the small county seat of Soda Springs already has its new hospital, a modern, attractive building that overlooks a lake on the Bear River and pine-covered mountains on the other side.

Soda Springs got $799,000 in federal aid in 1966 the first year it asked. The $1.7 million hospital opened this spring.

Dr. Carver called the new Soda Springs hospital "one tremendous white elephant" that taxpayers will have to support.

Mrs. Pearl S. Fryar, the hospital administrator, said Soda Springs had been losing patients to better facilities at Pocatello. She said one reason the town needed a new hospital was to attract more doctors.

Leaycraft Calls Meeting Of Concerned Tax Payers

WOODSTOCK — Town Justice Edgar Leaycraft is making arrangements for what he calls a "nonpartisan meeting" to be held at the home of Mrs. John Egan, Juniper Lane, Woodstock, Sunday, June 22, at 2 p.m. Leaycraft says it is hoped "concerned taxpayers and voters" in Woodstock will attend; offer constructive suggestions that might resolve the art colony's "current problem with hippies."

Leaycraft says Ulster County Sheriff William Martin has promised to attend; offer suggestions. Members of the local town board and constabulary force are also expected to be present. The justice, now serving his first year on the board as its only elected Democrat, says he has called for a meeting of this type because of his concern that Woodstock is "being overrun with hippies" and the "flood will grow as summer arrives."

He says the influx has been responsible for such problems as "trespassing on private property, camping in the woods, creating fire hazards, and crowded sidewalks," all of which "detract from the town."

Leaycraft put some of the blame for the hippie flood on articles which have appeared

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened higher today in moderately active trading.

The sharp surge late Tuesday may be a sign the market is about ready for a turnabout following the prolonged slump which knocked leading market averages to their lowest levels of the year.

Possibility of additional troop withdrawals from Vietnam later this year could encourage investors. So could House Ways and Means Committee approval of the surtax extension requested by President Nixon.

However, concern over tight money coupled with the slump in housing starts last month may dampen enthusiasm.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator was up 0.81 per cent with 340 issues on the tape. Of these, 182 advanced and 74 declined.

Aircrafts generally edged higher, while steels showed a slightly easier tone. Motors showed scattered strength.

Israeli War Planes Blast Arab Guerrilla Positions

TIBERIAS, Israel (AP)—Two Israeli war planes skimmed low across the Jordan River today to blast suspected Arab guerrilla positions inside Jordan.

A Jordanian military spokesman said the planes' rocket and machine-gun fire damaged plantations in the Wadi Alyabis area in the northern Jordan Valley but caused no casualties.

Witnesses at Tiberias said the planes strafed and bombed targets facing Tiberias in the Beisan Valley, 12 miles south of the Sea of Galilee. They said the air attack came after Arabs fired at an Israeli army patrol on the Jordan River cease-fire line. It was the first report of plane attacks in the area in several months.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, an Israeli army patrol fired at a group of saboteurs trying to lay mines in a road south of Gaza City, an army spokesman said.

Reagan's Kin Sues for Crash

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan's 27-year-old daughter, Maureen, sued a motorist for $25,000 Tuesday for injuries she suffered in a car accident last year.

Miss Reagan, daughter of Hollywood Freeway when his car struck her auto as she entered the freeway.

incurred spinal injuries and cuts and bruises in the accident July 25, 1968.

Derek Hoover of Long Beach, Calif., was named as the defendant. The suit charged he was driving south on the Hollywood Freeway when his car struck her auto as she entered the freeway.

An Iraqi newspaper claimed today that the dead woman, Shirley Anderson, 26, of Rochester, N. Y., was an agent for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Miss Anderson arrived in Israel Monday from Kinshasa, the Congo, where she had been teaching in an American school.

$15 Fines Paid By 12 Persons For Nude Swimming Near Ashokan

TOWN OF MARBLETOWN — Twelve persons were arrested recently on charges of criminal trespass for allegedly swimming in the nude on state property near the Ashokan Reservoir.

The swimmers, ranging in age from 17 to 28, were spotted by Special Deputy Charles Hesley of the New York City Department of Water Supply in a popular swimming hole near the lower Spillway Bridge.

Six members of the group were taken before Town of Woodstock Justice Rudolf Baumgarten and fined $15 apiece. They were: Michael Clark, 22, Rock City Road, Woodstock; Judith Coogan, 24, Middletown, R. I.; Samantha Lehman, 20, 86 East 6th Street, New York City; John Ferber, 17, 24 East 63rd Street, New York City; Robert Cohen, 928 President Street, New York City and Tara Coll, 19, 224 East 89th Street, New York City.

Six others were taken to Ulster County Jail where they later paid $15 fines. The six were: Christopher Groden, 25, 401 East Street, Walpole, Mass.; John Paul Kilb, 28, 344 3rd Avenue, New York City; Joel Stuart Zoll, 23, 184 Brookline Street, Springfield, Mass.; David Mowery, 22, 53 Phelicia Street, Springfield, Mass.; Pellaree Gibson, 20, 23 3rd Street, New York City and Bernice Mowery, 53 Phelicia Street, Springfield, Mass.

On Thursday, June 12 a 28-year-old Kingston man was placed under civil arrest by off-duty Kingston patrolman Richard Rasmell.

James Timothy Hardin of Box 153B, Kingston was then turned over to Deputy Hesley and charged with public lewdness. He appeared before Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan and was fined $100.

Irish Voters Going to Polls

DUBLIN (AP)—The shouting stopped and the voting began today in Ireland's national elections. Observers predicted the Labor party would sap some of the ruling Fianna Fail party's strength, which could create a political crisis or a period of minority rule.

Ireland's 1.75 million voters will elect 143 of the 372 candidates running for seats in the Dail, the lower house of Parliament. The Dail's 144th member, the house speaker, is unopposed.

Voting is by proportional representation, a complicated system in which voters list the candidates in their district in order of preference. The total vote for each candidate is determined by weighing the number of votes he received as a first choice, second choice, third choice and so on. Thus, in Ireland, pre-election polls, don't work.

But officials of Prime Minister Jack Lynch's Fianna Fail—Soldiers of Destiny—party privately conceded they had little hope of outright victory.

Lynch's chief issue in the campaign was that as the strongest of the three major parties, the Fianna Fail was the only one with a chance of winning a majority and providing a stable government. He used the same argument last year in trying to abolish proportional representation, but the electorate voted 60-40 to retain the system.

In the outgoing Parliament, Fianna Fail held 74 seats, the opposition Fine Gael—Irish party—46, Labor, 18, independents, 3, and three seats vacant.

Begin Fueling Of Apollo 11 For Moon Trip

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Technicians begin fueling the Apollo 11 moonship today to start final preparations for the launch four weeks away of man's first moon landing mission.

The go-ahead for the ticklish and time-consuming spacecraft fueling operation came from project officials after a day-long review Tuesday of all aspects of the historic lunar flight.

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin were pronounced in excellent health by Dr. Charles A. Berry, the director of medical operations for the spacemen.

Chief astronaut Donald K. Slayton said the pilots will work 10-hour days, six days a week for the final four weeks. He said he expects them to be "adequately trained and adequately rested" at launch time, 9:32 a.m. EDT July 16.

"We are go at this time, subject to successful completion of the remaining tests," reported Lt. Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, the Apollo program director.

Today's fueling operation was the start of preparations for the last big test—a dress rehearsal countdown scheduled to begin June 25 and end with a mock launch July 2. The spacecraft will remain fueled after the test.

According to the latest timetable, Armstrong and Aldrin will land on the moon in their craft at 4:32 p.m. EDT July 20. Armstrong is to set the first foot on the moon at 2:17 a.m. the next day.

The two pilots rehearsed their lunar takeoff maneuvers in a lunar module trainer Tuesday. Collins will remain in lunar orbit and he practiced his solo flying Tuesday in a command module simulator.

Sickler Case In Jury's Hands

CATSKILL — The case of 28-year-old Gary Sickler of Wappingers Falls, on trial for the stabbing death of Miss Kathleen Taylor, 20, also of Wappingers Falls, went to the jury today. Judge John J. McCall delivered his charge at 10:45 this morning.

Dutchess County public defender William Ciolko contends that the Taylor girl was killed by two men while she was trying to protect Sickler from their attack.

Dutchess County District Attorney Albert M. Rosenblatt maintains that the two men do not exist "except in the recesses of Sickler's warped mind."

After the jury began deliberations it was locked up until a verdict is reached.

Dr. Neumaier Tells Chamber

Graduate Center Needed in Mid-Hudson Area

DR. JOHN J. NEUMAIER

By LYNN MULVANEY

"The Mid-Hudson area does need a graduate center," Dr. John J. Neumaier, president of the State University College at New Paltz, told a breakfast meeting of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Before stating his conclusion, however, Dr. Neumaier gave the breakfasters much food for thought on this question and a host of other college-connected topics including student unrest and cooperation between various colleges and universities in the area.

Asking that a "careful determination" be made regarding an area graduate center, to make sure it is "morally justfied," Dr. Neumaier also indicated that he "believes" the State of New York is reluctant to build such a center in view of present taxpayer burdens. "It is not the time, I think, that the governor and the State Education Department would consider it."

Wrong Priorities

Looking to the future however, the former Minnesota State College president, taking a worldwide view of present day problems said, that "priorities in this country are wrong (among them the Vietnam War) and that United States should spend for 'its own Democratic experiment.' Advocating that first we must educate . . . then we can extend that education universally," Dr. Neumaier said that viewed in that context, the Mid-Hudson does need a graduate center. He envisioned the center to insure economic soundness, to take advantage of academic potential in our own area and to not lose that potential to other regions.

He portrayed a graduate school concerned with "human beings" with the arts and sciences, with engineering, with business . . . an "institution responsive to the people in this area."

Optimistic about the State University College at New Paltz' future, Dr. Neumaier said that even without a graduate center there is nothing to stop further development of the college. He said the New Paltz facility which gives 22 graduate degrees is attracting excellent faculty members especially in the area of geology, math, physics and chemistry. "You can really be proud of what we are beginning to do and what the future promises," he told his audience of men and women.

Referring to the morale of the students, which was at a low ebb for a time, the president, who was named to his post in the summer of 1968, said that prior to this year, there were student uprisings each spring for the previous three years, adding that he is proud that there were none this past year.

Speaking of the students themselves, he said "they have so many hopes now," inferring that there has been "an awakening of the faculty" and that the student voice is being heard.

Such a situation, in which students and faculty can meet, Dr. Neumaier explained, presents a much more challenging atmosphere in which to teach.

Climate and Background

Of past student uprisings here and elsewhere, the president asked his listeners to consider the climate and the background of the problems. Technology brings tremendous changes, he said, and the colleges and universities reflect the state of society. Referring to a position recently taken by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, Dr. Neumaier agreed that of all institutions in the country, the colleges have been less adaptive to changes in society.

He said he viewed the university scene as being comprised of administration, faculty and students—all "people." If you look at it from this point of view you are going to have problems.

"But while we have problems, is it all bad?" he asked, adding that in overcoming them perhaps we can show that change can occur without violence.

During a question and answer period, the president gave his views on present and potential cooperation between various colleges and universities in the Mid-Hudson area. He said that New Paltz, Vassar, Bard,

Dutchess and Ulster Community colleges have cooperated for some years but that the exchange here as elsewhere was not always easy because of "intellectual ambitions and empire building."

Great Possibilities

Now he says he sees great possibilities in the various institutions working together on practical problems, exchanging faculty members and students, arranging similar schedules and having representatives meeting often to discuss ventures, such as joint courses.

Dr. Neumaier was introduced by Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, Sharing the dais was club president, Dean M. Kintner and Len Cane, executive vice president.

President's Plan Aiding Families of the 1,300

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon and State Department officials are holding meetings with families of more than 1,300 captured U.S. servicemen in a widening effort to assure them they have not been forgotten. Two sessions already have been held and more briefings are planned in the next four or five weeks to inform the relatives about the government's efforts to free the men and ease their conditions of captivity.

Another purpose is to make sure the families of men missing or captured in the Vietnam war are receiving all the help to which they are entitled.

Nixon Program

Richard G. Capen, deputy assistant secretary of defense, is head of the team of officials arranging the meetings as part of a new Nixon administration program.

Sessions are tentatively planned in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Ariz., Denver, Colo., Kansas City, Mo., Westover Air Force Base, N.J., Mass., and an undetermined location in the southeastern United States.

Capen said the new effort—which has included a series of statements by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird designed to focus world opinion on the side of U.S. prisoners—represents a switch from the last administration's policy.

The policy in the past was not to say anything publicly for fear of reducing the possibility of release of the men or release of information by North Vietnam on their status," Capen said. It seemed to us the time was now for us to express deep concern about these men."

The most recent official casual report listed 341 U.S. servicemen captured or interned and 987 missing. Most of the missing are believed to be prisoners in North Vietnam—pilots captured when their planes were shot down during the air war.

Laird sent key Pentagon officials a memorandum last March 3 stressing that he is "deeply concerned about the welfare" of captured and missing servicemen and their families.

Doing All

"I want to be assured that the military services and the office of the secretary of defense are doing all that we possibly can for the next-of-kin," Laird said at the time.

Later that month, Capen held the first private, informal session with about 75 wives in the San Diego area. He and his associates followed this up last week with a similar gathering of about 100 next-of-kin from the San Antonio and the Ft. Worth-Dallas areas of Texas.

The sessions are behind closed doors, Capen said, to preserve the privacy of the families.

In addition to public statements by Laird deploring North Vietnam's treatment of U.S. prisoners, there have been behind-the-scenes moves by the defense secretary in this area.

In one such move several weeks ago, he briefed U.S. ambassadors in Belgium and Britain so they could solicit help from European countries in bringing pressure on North Vietnam for humanitarian handling of Americans in captivity.

So far, Capen acknowledged, Hanoi's response has been disappointing.

Carnegie Offering Prompts Plaudits

KINGSTON, N.Y. — Tonight marks the final meeting of the Dale Carnegie course sponsored locally by The Kingston Freeman and on Saturday night the 36 graduates and their guests will celebrate the occasion with a dinner at the Capri 400 Restaurant in Port Jervis.

During the 14 weeks of the course, class participants have gone through nervous moments, lots of laughs and produced not a few success stories along the way.

For area manager Harold R. Shultz there were pulses on both sides of the ledger. In a recent letter to Richard L. Treat, vice president and general manager, Shultz commended The Freeman for its cooperation in the local venture.

He said that in the Kingston area he found The Freeman the most effective way of achieving the results needed for a successful promotion.

"During our association, I found that the Carnegie Ideals reached more people in Ulster County than any other means available could possibly have done. I look forward to working with such an enthusiastic group of people again soon."

Local Dale Carnegie Course officers who will preside at the Saturday festivities are Ronald Wright, president; Joel Brink, vice president; John Salter, treasurer and Joan L. Woinoski, secretary. Diplomas will be awarded at that time.

Instructor for the local course was Robert Burns of Schenectady.

Deck Officers Agreement Ends Shipping Tieup

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking deck officers have reached a tentative settlement with a major portion of the nation's merchant marine, ending a two-day tieup at East and Gulf Coast ports.

Agreements reached Tuesday night between two shipowner groups and the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, AFL-CIO, affect more than 400 freighters and passenger liners.

Bargaining was set to resume today on contracts for 150 tankers.

Both the union and industry negotiators credited Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, with "yeoman service" in negotiating the settlement.

The Maritime Service Committee, representing 220 dry cargo ships, was first to settle with the union. Later, the American Maritime Association reached an "interim agreement" covering 189 dry cargo ships.

Less than 50 of the nation's 9 merchant marine vessels were idled by the walkout which began at 12:01 a.m. Monday when the contract of the master's and three other seagoing unions expired.

The other unions had reached tentative agreement earlier on three-year pacts with a 33 per cent increase in wages and benefits. Salaries would increase 19 per cent over the term of the contract.

Swearing-In For Keating Held Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester, N.Y., was sworn in as the new U.S. Ambassador to India by Secretary of State William P. Rogers Tuesday.

Keating, who had been serving since 1965 as an associate judge of the New York State Court of Appeals, succeeds Chester Bowles as ambassador.

Keating, 69, was a congressman from 1946 to 1953 and from 1956 to '57 and U.S. senator from New York from 1958 to 1965. During his years in Congress, he was a member of the congressional delegation to the Council of Europe, the Inter-Parliamentary Union, and also a delegate to the Inter-Governmental Committee of European Migration Conferences.

He was born in Lima, N.Y., in May, 1900 and received his bachelor's degree from the University of Rochester and his law degree from Harvard University in 1923.

During World War I, he served as a private and sergeant in the U.S. Army and rose from major to brigadier general in the Army in World War II.

Both the union and industry negotiators credited Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, with "yeoman service" in negotiating the settlement.

Kingston Scores a First With Saving Ways

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON Kingston has scored a first in New York State Urban Renewal history while moving to preserve its own heritage.

During the past week a number of unique architectural details have been carefully removed from houses along Washington Avenue slated for demolition in the Uptown Urban Renewal plan. The doorways, railings and mantles have been stored for use in restoration of other houses within the city.

Cooperation Through the cooperation of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, Kingston Urban Renewal Director James Connors, and the Historical Landmarks Commission, the architectural gems will be preserved despite the necessary destruction of the buildings themselves.

Out of the initial salvage on Washington Avenue has grown a plan whereby all old buildings slated for Urban Renewal demolition will be inspected first for items of use in authentic restoration of buildings in the city.

Special

First priority will be given to refurbishing of structures within the historic Old Stockade area uptown with other buildings in the city coming in for consideration next. The truly outstanding part of the plan is that the architectural details will be carefully stored by the city and will be given to those involved in restoration projects at no charge—all in the interest of preserving Kingston Colonial City charm.

Stripping of the three Washington Avenue houses this past week was carried out by the Department of Public Works under the direction of Charles Cole, superintendent. Fred Johnston, chairman of the city Historic Landmarks Commission, lauded Cole and his men for their careful handling of the delicate operation, noting that the fine old details were removed intact.

At the white clapboard house closest to the Bull Market corner, the doorway and sidelights were removed along with interior details such as mantle, door trim and window blocks. Two old brass locks had been salvaged earlier. The entry sidelights which appeared to be lead work were revealed to be the intricate handwork of an early 1800's carpenter. Other early 1800 finds at two other houses on Washington Avenue toward Route 28 included bluestone stoop, wrought iron railings, stone posts, door

Now that the saving ways have gained impetus from the first fortunate venture, it is expected that the operation will continue with survey then salvage.

Storage Methods

Storage will be most methodical. Under the supervision of the Historic Landmarks Commission the items will be photographed and dimensions will be recorded.

In this way the architecture of the city spanning three centuries will be retained for a fourth century and more.

The project is in keeping with the Historic Landmarks Commission's aim to keep Kingston in the historic role while life in the 20th Century marches to its drummer.

Harvey Fite Retires

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON Harvey Fite, Bard College professor of sculpture, will retire this month after 36 years association with the school.

Fite is best known for his Opus 40; a free form sculpture of gracefully flowing stone ramps and terraces surrounding a vertical monolith on his Woodstock property. The project is now in its 27th year, and Fite expects it to be finished in another 13 years.

The professor has travelled extensively and his work has been exhibited both in this country and abroad. Opus 40 has received considerable attention by national press, and was the subject of a Kingston Freeman feature. In addition, several graduate theses have been written on the sculpture. The final exhibition of the current school year at the Proctor Art Theatre, at Bard College, will be work by Harvey Fite. The show will include numerous pieces of sculpture in various media, as well as a series of photographs of Opus 40.

The show will open June 19 with a reception for the artist. Gallery hours will be from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily through June 25.

AWOL Soldier Is Nabbed By Deputies

KINGSTON
A 21-year-old Kingston man, reportedly absent without leave from Fort Dix Army Base in New Jersey, was arrested Tuesday by Ulster County Sheriff's Department deputies behind the Royal Diner, on Route 28 in the Town of Kingston.

Wayne David VanKleeck, 21, of RD 2, Box 215, Kingston had apparently been sleeping in a tent behind the diner for several days. He was discovered there last night by Deputy Harold Dohnken.

Police reported that VanKleeck tried to escape when he saw Dohnken approach. The deputy, however, collared the fleeing man after a short chase.

VanKleeck was taken to Ulster County Jail where he is awaiting pickup by Federal authorities for transfer to Fort Dix.

Deck Officer Excused by Inquiry Board

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — Lt. j. g. Ronald C. Ramsey, deck officer of the U.S. destroyer sliced in half by an Australian aircraft carrier, was permanently excused today from testifying before a board of inquiry.

U.S. Rear Adm. Jerome H. King Jr., chairman of the board of six American and six Australian officers, said the panel "will be happy" to hear from Ramsey later if he changes his mind.

Ramsey, who was deck commander of the destroyer Frank E. Evans when it collided with the aircraft carrier Melbourne on June 3 and 74 Evans crewmen lost their lives, said his lawyer had not been granted the right to cross-examine witnesses, review all previous testimony and recall witnesses, and that testifying under such conditions would violate his constitutional rights.

The board agreed to excuse Ramsey because U.S. military law allows witnesses in investigative hearings to refuse to answer questions.

Ramsey, who other witnesses said ordered the turn that led to the collision, was told when he first appeared before the board that he was suspected of negligence.

After the board excused Ramsey, it called Lt. j. g. Roland T. Bowler III, who turned the bridge of the Evans over to Ramsey about three hours before the accident.

Bowler, 24, told the board that he had maneuvered the Evans to a position behind the Melbourne twice during his four-hour watch and had encountered no difficulty. It was during the same kind of maneuver under Ramsey's command that the two ships collided.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Quiet 30 Days Noted by Chief Of Centerville

A quiet 30 days with very few calls was reported for the period between May 14 through June 10 by Centerville Fire District Chief Thomas Brennan Jr.

The report notes two re-suscitator calls, a chimney fire and grass and brush fire and one standby during an electrical storm.

The regular drill held May 21 was well attended with a turnout of 28 men from both Centerville and Cedar Grove station. The drill Wednesday will be held at 7:30 p. m. at Centerville. Clifton Jones of Saugerties Ambulance Service and some of his assistants will instruct the volunteers in emergency first aid.

Chief Brennan reported that during the electrical storm on May 29, lightning struck the fire phone system and sounded the alarm. At the same time a TV antenna in Woodland Acres was struck by lightning. One pumper was immediately dispatched to the scene to determine if a fire had started. After a thorough search the firemen returned to quarters reporting that damage was minor.

The chief also reported that a new alternator for Centerville's

American La France pumper Pak bottles have been purchased and has been chased and will be delivered installed. Two new Scot-Air shortly.

Teachers Hear Reports On Contract Negotiation

SAUGERTIES: Progress of negotiations between the teachers and Saugerties Central School Board of Education was reported at a special meeting of Saugerties Teachers Association held Monday night in the parking lot of Trinity Church Barclay Heights.

More than 100 members were in attendance when the meeting was called to order by President Herman Wilcox.

On negotiations, it was reported the two teams met on June 13 and another meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 24. Delores La Chance was elected secretary of the association.

Wilcox read a letter from Ronald Noel, president of the Ulster County Teachers' Council. In this letter Noel stated that the schools in the entire council stood in solid support behind the Saugerties teachers in their efforts for quality education in the area.

A statement from Saugerties Teachers Association during the weekend explains the absence of administrators of the school system at a recent meeting of the association.

"Administrators at the Saugerties Central Schools criticized action taken in a 'no confidence' vote for Superintendent Dr. Dexter O. Arnold since they were not invited to a meeting of the Saugerties Teachers' Association."

It should be made clear that the administrators are presently negotiating for the Saugerties Board of Education with the instructional unit represented by the Saugerties Teachers' Association.

"The teachers find it difficult to work cooperatively and effectively during the day with administrators that sit opposite them in negotiations. Many teachers have found it difficult to meet with their administrators on school business because they are in conference pertaining to negotiations and therefore not available."

Pied Piper Presented at Morse School

SAUGERTIES: The Pied Piper of Hamelin fame was reported to be in Grant D. Morse School on June 5. Once again he spirited away the children and vanished into time, awaiting his instant rebirth.

The performance of this ageless classic was presented by the combined classes of Edwin Cummings and Richard Curtis with the help of the music teacher, Mrs. Dennis Wurzel.

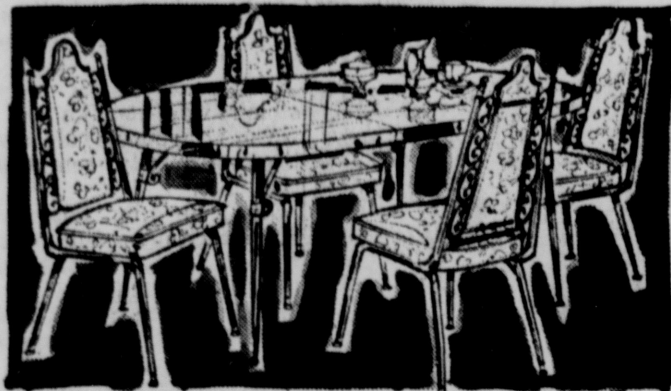

The Pied Piper was played by Cindy Fetty; the mayor, Eugene Pavinato; the town council, Richard Parsons, Robert Tiedtke and Ronald Lang; the town crier, Sherree Wipper; the lame child, Susan Colwell. The children, townspeople and choral readers were performed by the remaining students in the combined classes.

Immanuel Lutheran Evangelical Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Nancy Jean Wiedemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August L. Wiedemann of 28 Dietz Court, Kingston, and William H. Liese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zale Liese of Port Ewen, on Saturday, June 7.

The Rev. Gary Mehl officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full-length gown of silk organza over silk taffeta. The gown featured a fitted empire bodice with a high Victorian neckline trimmed with Venice lace, and long puffed sleeves with high cuffs trimmed in Venice lace. The straight skirt of embroidered organza was accented with a full circular chapel train edged with Venice lace. Her bouffant two-tier silk illusion veil was secured by a large Dior bow of embroidered organza. She

She carried a nosegay of blue margerites and baby's breath.

Attendants were Miss Arlene Schussler, cousin of the bride, Kingston; Miss Helene Collins, Kingston; and Miss Janet Wallace, Woodstock. Their aqua blue gowns and veils were styled identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried nosegays of yellow marguerites and baby's breath.

County Legion Auxiliary Installs Officers at Girl State Dinner

The annual Girl State dinner and the installation of the officers of the Ulster County committee of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, recently with the county chairman, Mrs. Mary Dempsey, presiding.

Seven county high school juniors have been selected to attend Empire Girl State at Albany State College, starting June 20 through June 27.

Three hundred girls will attend from New York State; to date more than 7000 girls have benefited by the training of Americanism and good citizenship program. It is the Auxiliary's aim to extend the program each year.

Girl State is a practical application of Americanism and good citizenship. The entire program is a non-partisan, non-political attempt to teach and inculcate in the youth of America a love for God and Country. These girls are taught to live together as self-governing citizens; informed about the duties, responsibilities of American citizenship, in order that they may understand and participate in the functions of their government; and are helped to grasp the meaning of some of the responsibilities they must assume as adults.

Only single girls who have never been married are eligible. It is limited to any girl in the junior or third year of high school, regardless whether year ends in June or February. This is mandatory. Girls are expected to return home and complete her education.

This is a strenuous course and girls must be physically fit. They must be good in courage; honesty; scholarship; cooperativeness.

Guest speaker was Miss Patricia Mills, last years representative from Marbletown Unit No. 1512, Stone Ridge, who was the first girl from Ulster County to be elected as Governor. She gave a history of the various activities at Girl State and stated she was sure the girls would "enjoy every moment of their stay." Miss Mills is now completing her education at Rondout Valley Central High School, Kyserike.

Mrs. Marge Trowbridge, county Empire Girl State chairman, thanked Miss Mills for her interesting report. She stated the following girls will go to Girl State this year: Diane Mataraza, Route 1, Milton, Veiby-Sutton Unit No. 1512.

Those elected were: child welfare, Mrs. Edna Branigan; and Mrs. Bea Shea, rehabilitation chairman; executive committee, Mrs. Magda Moseman, Betty Sanford, and Edna Branigan.

Other committee chairman will be announced later.

Mrs. Mary Dempsey thanked the members who had helped made her year a successful one. She will now serve as Third District vice, chairman.

The meeting was adjourned with a verse and a prayer by the county chairman.

He has been a columnist for such newspapers as The Daily Sport, World's Trip; The Sport Nippon, Stamp Corner; The Tokyo Newspaper, Stamp Topics; The Tokyo Sport Newspaper, Guide of the Around-the-World Trip; and such magazines as Small-Size Movies (camera magazine), Trip Around the World with a Camera; and eight various educational magazines for juniors.

Mr. Hiraiwa is a "special columnist" to Reader's Digest, Trip of the Wonderful World; The Mainichi Newspaper, Great Men in the World's Stamp; The Asahi Journal, Trip Around the World; The Yomiuri Newspaper, Friendship Goes Over the Ocean.

Having visited Hong Kong, Taiwan, Korea, Macau, Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia, England, Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Spain, Portugal, upon his return to Japan from the U.S., Mr. Hiraiwa's stories and photographs will be widely published in major magazines and newspapers throughout Japan.

Publication of these stories and photos should enhance the good image of the United States in Japan, as well as serve to attract more Japanese to visit the U.S.A. Since his arrival in Kingston from Canada on June 12, he has also visited area stamp clubs.

His hostess, Masako Economos, also from Japan, is known locally as a teacher of origami, the ancient art of Japanese paper folding, and has appeared at various local organizations where she demonstrated the process.

MRS. GEORGE ECONOMOS of 34 Fairmont Avenue, this city, extends a hearty welcome to Michio Hiraiwa, a travel writer and photographer from Japan, who is spending a month in this country covering tourist attractions and general interest items which will be widely published in major magazines and newspapers throughout Japan. Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The ladies in my adult swimming class laughed at me when I showed up for class carrying my plastic raincoat, especially on beautiful, cloudless days.

But their chuckles soon changed to compliments when I told them I brought it to slip on over my wet swimsuit for the trip home to keep the seat in my car dry! How about that?

Geneva Harman

That's the greatest, Heloise!

Dear Heloise:

I have a seventy-year-old friend who was telling me about the trips their family took when her children were young.

They had a black cat bank they put change in for their trips. If they had a lot of money, it meant a long trip. If not, they took a weekend trip.

Over the years, they saw everything of interest in each county they lived in, as well as in many surrounding states.

Lucille Heirman

Dear Heloise:

I don't believe in marking draperies in order to return them to the same window after washing or cleaning them.

Draperies and curtains can represent a considerable expense in decorating a home, and one of the best ways to protect that investment is to guard against fading from the sun.

We all love sunshine because it's bright and beautiful and good for us. But draperies aren't people; they just get paler and paler until they almost fade away.

The answer is to alternate them the same way your husband switches the tires on his automobile.

In homes with picture windows this is often impossible, but in older homes it's easy. Although windows may vary an inch or two in width or length, this switching is essential if you want your draperies to last. Even glass curtains should be switched.

Eva Lockhart

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

My wife gets the DumDum button today...

She tried dyeing her hair and found she was allergic to the stuff. Now, with her swollen face and bleached topknot, she looks like space...

Joe

Dear Heloise:

I was slicing rhubarb for pie today and needed four cups.

Sometimes I'm interrupted, so as I put each cup into the bowl, I set aside one piece of rhubarb, which immediately informed me how many cups I had already added.

Rookies Hebner and Hisle Slow Down Cubs Express

By United Press International

Richie Hebner and Larry Hisle, two of the National League's most promising young stars, continue to demonstrate why they may be the superstars of the future.

Hebner, a 20-year-old third baseman who passed up a number of inviting pro hockey offers to sign with Pittsburgh, singled in the decisive run in each game as the Pirates swept the Chicago Cubs Tuesday night, 10 and 4-3.

Hisle, 22, drove in four runs with a pair of homers and a single to give Philadelphia a 7-3 victory over New York after the Mets had won the opener of the doubleheader, 1-0, behind Gary Gentry's two-hit pitching.

Elsewhere, San Francisco blanked Cincinnati 4-0, Los Angeles walloped San Diego twice, 7-3 and 11-0, St. Louis downed Montreal, 2-0, and Atlanta shaded Houston, 6-5.

Hebner won the first game with a run-scoring single in the seventh inning before deciding the second in the ninth with a bases loaded single.

Matty Alou doubled in the seventh inning of the opener and scored on Hebner's single off Ferguson Jenkins. The Pirates loaded the bases in the ninth inning of the second game on a single, an error and an intentional walk before Hebner lined his single over the drawn-in outfield with one out.

Juan Marichal pitched a five-hitter in beating Cincinnati for the ninth consecutive time and Ron Hunt and Dick Dietz drove in two runs each as the Giants downed the Reds. Marichal, now 8-2, has not lost to the Reds since September, 1965.

Dietz walked with the bases filled in the first to force in a run and Hunt had a two-run double in the fourth. Dietz doubled home Dave Marshall in the seventh.

The Dodgers parlayed a seven-run seventh inning in the opener with a six-run outburst in the fourth inning of the nightcap to rip the Padres twice. Andy Kosco's two-run homer, his 12th of the season, highlighted the seven-run inning in the opener and Willie Crawford's three-run shot capped the second game rally. Alan Foster, who lost his first four decisions this season, pitched his second consecutive shutout in the second game.

Curt Flood drove in two runs with a seventh-inning double and Steve Carlton and Joe Hoerner combined on a five-hitter to pace the Cardinals over the Expos. Flood, benched for Vic Davallillo at the start of the game, scored Carlton, on with a elder's choice, and Lou Brock, who singled.

Hank Aaron led off the ninth inning with his 18th homer of the season and 528th of his career to boost the Braves over the Astros. Aaron's homer came off Jack Billingham, the last of five Houston pitchers.

Mike Lum's two-run single highlighted a five-run seventh-inning rally that gave the Braves a 5-4 lead. Gary Geiger singled in the tying run in the eighth for Houston.

(By United Press International)

The Detroit Tigers are making their move now but they've found themselves on a treadmill.

The defending world champions—breaking out of an early season slump—swept a doubleheader from the New York Yankees, 8-0 and 6-3 Tuesday night to run their winning streak to seven games as manager Mayo Smith beamed, "I feel the club has momentum now."

But the problem for the Tigers is that they're still not gaining on the high-flying Baltimore Orioles, who've won six of seven.

On Monday night, Smith said, "Baltimore can't keep up that '721 pace.' He was right. On Tuesday night, the Orioles beat Washington, 5-1, to boost their percentage to .726. Baltimore leads the second-place Boston Red Sox by seven games and the Tigers by 8½.

A pair of Detroit newcomers, Tom Tresh and Ike just called 'up from Toledo of the International League collected two hits and scored two runs. His first major league hit in the fourth was a two-run homer.

World Series hero Mickey Lolich went 7-2-3 innings to boost his record to 7-1. Don McMahon finished up the final 1-1-3 innings after the Yanks touched Lolich for three runs when he was coasting with a 6-0 margin.

In other American League action, Cleveland beat Boston, 4-2 and California drubbed Minnesota, 13-1. The Seattle at Chicago doubleheader and the Oakland at Kansas City games were rained out.

Mike Cuellar pitched a four-hitter and Dave Johnson drove in two runs with a single and a homer as the Orioles beat Washington, Baltimore has now won 11 of its last 13 and eight straight on the road. Cuellar pitched no-hit ball for 5-1-3 innings before Frank Howard doubled. Hank Allen ruined Cuellar's shutout bid with a run-scoring double in the eighth.

Ken Harrelson snapped a 2-2 deadlock with a single in the eighth and scored on Cap Peterson's sacrifice fly as Cleveland topped Boston for the first time in eight games since last Aug. 22. Stan Williams pitched a six-hitter to gain the victory for the Indians while Jim Lonborg suffered the loss.

Homers by Rikl Reichardt and Bill Voss and triples by Jim Spencer and Aurelio Rodriguez highlighted a 13-hit attack as California romped over Minnesota. Andy Messersmith pitched a three-hitter to gain his second victory of the year. A three-run homer by Voss highlighted a three-run sixth inning that wrapped up the game for the Orioles.

Namath met with Jets' president Phil Iselin at Iselin's apartment. A team spokesman said Iselin and Namath would try to set up a meeting with commissioner Pete Rozelle regarding his possible return for the 1969 season.

undesirables which Rozelle spoke of. Among those reported to have frequented his club were high-placed members of the Mafia.

Wiretaps on phones in the club apparently established that gambling and other questionable activity was being conducted on the premises.

Rozelle's office said Monday that Namath's offer to hire the detective to screen the customers was not enough to get him off the spot. An aide to Rozelle said Namath and the commissioner would have to meet personally on the matter.

If you have an aversion to the ancient art of falconry, and many person do, how about this. Some of the best fishermen in the world wear wings!

These "wings" are large, tethered birds whose angling ancestry dates back 1300 year, which, of course, puts them in a class with falcons. Cormorants, tied to a long cord, are still used to fish rivers and lakes in some parts of the Orient. A metal ring fastened around the bird's neck keeps it from swallowing the catch. A cormorant may fetch its owner 100 to 150 fish per hour, a good catch ratio, anywhere. But is this sport?

ACTUALLY, birds of all kinds are important to fishermen. For birds are helpful in finding fish, and in some instances are beneficial in reducing undesirable species of fish.

Not everyone can have a trained cormorant to do his fishing, but the role birds play in aiding salt-water anglers is well known. A flock of diving, wheeling gulls is often better than some of the new electronic equipment when it comes to locating schools of fish offshore and inshore.

Not all bird-fish relationships are beneficial to man, however. In some coastal areas, mersanger ducks are a menace to salmon populations and in some cases have needed control to halt their excessive predations.

ANOTHER PLACE man and birds tangle over fish is around fish hatcheries. Hatchery holding tanks are favorite feeding grounds for birds such as kingfisher and the great blue heron.

Now that the Mercury lads have informed you about the birds and the fish, the next time someone says fishing is for the birds—smile and agree. After all, aren't there times when a cormorant would come in handy?

THE LATE Roland Post originator of the Old Rip homilies and fish and game column, was a man who loved fishing and hunting. His vacation time was usually spent in the north country at Indian Lake, where he found quiet and peace and where good fishing was always available.

He had suffered setbacks in recent years which would have stopped ordinary hunters and fishermen. But he didn't stop. He continued to serve others, helping them, listening to their stories and reliving them. Here and there a seed was sown. Why not let others know of their good fortune, he reasoned.

HERE WAS a man who always looked to the future. He jealously guarded our God-given heritage and was one of the staunchest defenders of conservation. He always looked ahead to the next generation.

His was not to take all that he could get, but only what he could use. This is the true spirit of conservation. It seems that too many nimrods just catch as much fish or shoot as much game as possible, just to say we did and let them set in freezers until eventually thrown out.

In paying tribute to this fine sportsman, for all the things he has done for sportsmen and asked nothing in return, our many thanks. We shall miss him very much. To Old Rip in the Vahalla of Sportsmen: The blessings of all of us go to you and may God be with you.

Nils Dane Grand Champion

WOODSTOCK and very bad footing, the show was a success. More than 100 riders, some of the top equestrians in the area, were present. Nils Dane, a Morgan stallion, was the champion, performing like the felloe-deep mud and rain, "danced" through the mud to become Grand Champion of the Day in the Woodstock Riding Club's 22nd annual Horse Show. In spite of almost steady rain, Nils Dane also captured the Senior English Championship trophy as well as the Grand Champion cooler to climax a tremendous day for Miss Bentzen, one of the top equestriennes in the area.

Senior Western Championship were Betsy Ryan of Kingston, riding Southlands Plutonium in the English division and Dave Abrams of Milford, riding Showimps Hanka in the Western Division.

Junior Reserve Champions were Mary Jane Beiter of Saugerties on Lorna Doone in the English Division. The Western Junior Reserve Champion was Lady Muff, ridden by Marion Hoffman of Port Ewen.

Among the firsts picked up by Miss Bentzen on Nils Dane were: Open English Trail, English Pleasure, Model English, Three-Gaited English, Open Horsemanship Over Fences and several seconds.

Show co-chairmen Joan Morehouse and Robert Davis were pleased with the fine turnout of horses and riders in such poor weather. There were even some spectators who were so enthused they watched all day while standing barefoot in the rain.

Red Wings Hot, Charge on 1st
The red hot Rochester Red Wings topped Buffalo 7-3, and picked up a full game on league leading Toledo who dropped an 8-5 decision to Syracuse.

The Red Wings are now tied for third place in the International League with Tidewater who lost to Columbus, 7-1. In a double header Louisville won the opener, 8-4, but lost the nightcap to Richmond, 4-3.

Mike Ferraro went hitless in three trips. Mike's average has dipped from .351, which was third in the league last week, to the present .320.

Finding $2 Billion Overrun Put Him in Pentagon Doghouse

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force efficiency expert who was demoted to cost overruns of a GI bowling alley after pointing out a $2 billion overrun on the C5A transport plane, claims the military subjects cost-control experts to "isolation, neutralization or removal from the acquisition business."

A. Ernest Fitzgerald told a joint congressional economic Fitzgerald also told the congressmen of another civilian Air Force employee who he said uncovered a $229 million, willful underestimation of a major weapons system.

"He was isolated, effectively removed from supervision of this activity and given minor responsibilities," Fitzgerald said of the unnamed official in the Air Force Systems Command.

The cost analyst landed "in deep trouble" after he went outside normal channels to tell Pentagon officials they had been sold a bill of goods on the Mark II electronics and navigation system for the F111 fighter-bomber, Fitzgerald said.

Air Force officers said the program would cost $712 million when they knew the correct figure was $941 million, he said.

"The program was approved on the basis of an estimate that was knowingly reduced," Fitzgerald said. "The Air Force was forced to admit its mistake but the program was approved and spending was under way already."

Fitzgerald said after his own demotion Air Force officers then wrested the entire contract review and cost-control program from civilian hands.

"I think the over-all climate and the level of opposition to cost-reducing measures, reinforced by occasional examples of personal disaster visited on economy proponents, it is not surprising that most working level government acquisition managers shy away from tough cost control actions," Fitzgerald said.

2 Missing Men Feared Drowned In Lake Ontario

OLCOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Two men are missing in Lake Ontario today and feared drowned after one of them fell from a sailboat that was knocked about by high waves and the other attempted to save him.

Niagara County Sheriff's deputies said Frank Lakdaw, 26, was knocked from the boat. One of the three other men on the craft, Louis Filicetti, Jr., 22, put on a life jacket and leaped in to aid Lakdaw, they said. Both men, from the village of Lewiston, were missing when the Sheriff's deputies were called off Tuesday due to bad weather.

The two other men on the 30-foot sailboat, the Myakka, Gary Joy and Daniel Morrison, both 21, told deputies they had no sailing experience and were unable to maneuver the craft for a rescue.

Introducing a Used Car Guarantee
It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-you-pay-half deals."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevs. Fords. Ramblers. VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens.)

So, the next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

Dear Abby

Old for Hide 'n Seek

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old widow who recently met a very charming and attractive 54-year-old widower. He is a delightful company and we really hit it off together very well, but there is one drawback. He has two married daughters (whom I have never met) who want to run his life. They are so afraid that someone is going to "take Mother's place" they can't stand it. She died three years ago.

When this man takes me out we have to go places where his daughters will not find out about it. Also when he comes to my home he takes a taxi so no one will see his car parked in front of my house.

How can I convince him that he should live his own life and quit worrying about what his daughters think? Or do you think I should insist on meeting his daughters and try to make them like me?

IN DOUBT
DEAR IN: If you can meet his daughters and make them "like" you, it would be ideal. But a grown man who is "hiding" from his daughters in the manner you describe has a lot of growing up to do. I certainly wouldn't hide with him much longer.

DEAR ABBY: Why should the men have all the fun? They seem to enjoy PLAYBOY magazine and their PLAYBOY CLUBS so much. How about women getting the same break? There are a lot of guys with beautiful bodies who wouldn't mind being photographed for the pleasure of women who can appreciate them.

I think a PLAYGIRL club would do a great business. After all there are more girls than men around, and why shouldn't they be able to go to a club and have good-looking, well-built men waiting on them? It's an idea, Abby. What do you think of it?

DEAR PLAYGIRL: Not much. In the first place there are plenty of muscle men magazines around if a girl wants to get her jollies looking at paper dolls. But what man in his right mind is going to take a girl to a PLAYGIRL club so she can ogle good-looking MEN?

DEAR ABBY: Your article on marijuana was good, but I'll bet the subject of diet (or pep) pills will bring in just as much, if not more comment.

I started taking diet pills (dexadrine) when I was 18. It also helped to keep me awake, which I found helpful as I worked two jobs. Now, 10 years later, I am still taking them—only I am taking five times as much as I did when I started.

I am a married woman with three children and a good husband who knows nothing of my drug dependence—and that is exactly what it is. I've never had a problem getting the pills. I don't get them illegally. Many of my friends take them, too, and we buy or borrow them from each other. We get them from our doctors on prescription.

I don't know where this is going to end. I smoke two to three packs of cigarettes a day and drink coffee like it was going out of style. My patience is short and I don't really have the energy I once had.

Let me offer one piece of advice to anyone who is about to take his first "pep" pill. DON'T. If you're overweight, DIET, but don't take pills for it. If you're tired, cat nap, but don't take a pill to pep you up. These pills make you smoke, drink and talk too much. I never realized it, but I took more than I could handle when I took my first one. Don't use my name or city if you print this, and sign me

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

For Release Wednesday, June 18—Jean Adams' Teen Forum—FACTS OF LIFE: (Q.) My mother never sits down and talks to me about the facts of life. When I ask her a specific question she gets suspicious.

She asks me who's been telling me things. I tell her no one has. But she thinks my boyfriend tells me. She won't let me talk to him on the phone but 15 minutes.

I only see him four or five times a month and that's only when I go to the store and we bump into each other accidentally. He's 17 and I'm 15. I don't think he's too old for me. What shall I do?—P. in Detroit.

(A.) Wait until your mother is in a good mood. Then tell her that as a maturing young lady you need guidance from an adult and that you prefer that she be the adult.

Tell her you can go to the library and get books on the facts of life, or you can go to someone else for the details, but that you prefer to have her tell you.

I believe this approach will convince her that you are sincere and worthy of her trust, trouble, and understanding.

Your boyfriend is not too old for you, but 15 minutes is long enough for any telephone conversation.

He should be able to see you at your home. A store is not a good place to meet him.

PUTTING IT DOWN: (Q.) How can I improve my handwriting? I am a boy, a junior in high school, but I write like a sixth-grader. I use a typewriter at school because I'm ashamed of how my writing looks.—R.P. in Kenosha, Wis.

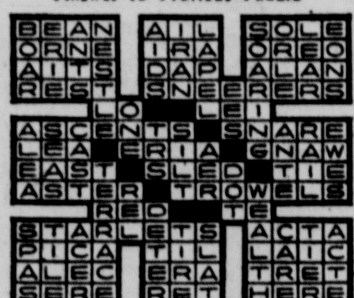

(A.) Your handwriting is not beautiful, but it is clear and readable. Write more by hand and less with a typewriter. This will give you practice. Try to write not too fast and not too slow. Do not try to make your writing "pretty."

Concentrate on ideas and not appearance. What you put down is far more important than what it looks like.

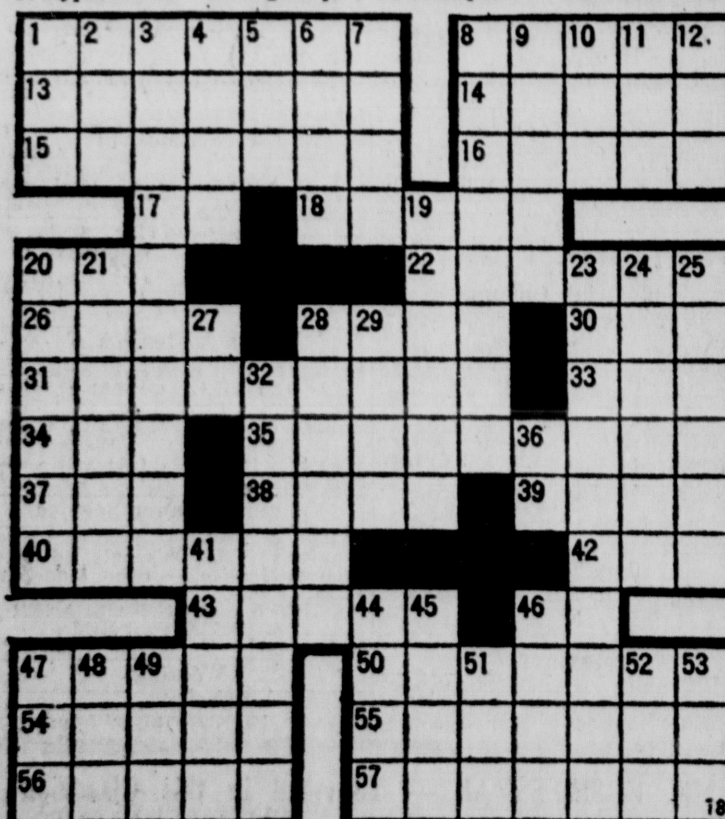

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

be, and that he is a tremendous television star in the making? Weren't you surprised—along with the video industry—when NBC-TV's "Julia" series, the most talked-about and successful new show of this past season was overlooked in last weekend's Emmy Awards presentations?

And wasn't the critics' consensus, a poll of 18 television columnists, overdoing it a bit when its third most honored show of the past year turned out to be ABC-TV's musical-comedy series, "That's Life"? It was good, all right, but it wasn't that good.

How in the world did anyone decide that Jonathan Winters would be able to carry a weekly one-hour CBS-TV show?

And how can anyone fail to see that Goldie Hawn, of NBC-TV's "Laugh-In," and Susan Saint James, of the same network's "The Name of the Game," have surefire movie careers in the offing?

And aren't those enough questions for one day?

Jetliner Returns Back Home After Record Hijack Flight

MIAMI (UPI)—A polite but "very desperate" gunman Tuesday hijacked a transcontinental jetliner carrying a top-level physicist among its 87 occupants and forced it to fly 2,700 miles to Cuba.

The Trans World Airlines plane returned to the United States from the longest hijack flight in U.S. history late Tuesday night with everyone aboard except the hijacker, identified as "J. Davis," a tall Negro who boarded at Oakland, Calif.

The physicist, Dr. W. Wallace Birnbaum of Berkeley, Calif., said the FBI was quite concerned that he was aboard the hijacked plane. Birnbaum, president of Physics International Inc., refused to comment on his work. He said he was flying to New York for a board of directors meeting.

The gunman commandeered the Boeing 707 on a nonstop flight from Oakland to New York City, so the plane's 84,000 pounds of fuel were more than sufficient for the trip to Havana. Neatly dressed in a brown suit, the man approached hostess Nan Schwager, 29, of St. Paul, Minn., making her last flight before retiring to marry.

"The man came out of the forward restroom and told me to tell the captain that he wanted to go to Havana," she said. The plane was over Wilson Creek, Nev., at the time—2:10 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

She informed Capt. George Behnke, the pilot, over the intercom and he admitted the man to the cockpit.

"He said, 'I want to go to Havana,'" Behnke said. "He didn't give any reason why he wanted to go except that he was a very desperate man. He had a gun on one of the hostesses and I wasn't about to let her get hurt."

While the man was in the cockpit, some crew members went through his leather bag in the passenger section. It contained a knife, razor blades, clothing, a picture of a woman and children, a gift, and a note—apparently written by a child—to the effect: "Tell the family hello and that we're okay." The bag also contained a paperback book on the "Black Panthers," a militant Negro group.

The plane was detained in Cuba about three hours before it was allowed to leave. The Cubans served the passengers sandwiches and lemonade.

The crew and passengers were questioned by immigration officials and FBI agents when the plane landed in Miami. It proceeded to New York after refueling, but 12 to 14 of the passengers bound for Europe missed their connections.

Mississippi Oil Slick: A Lot of Unhappy People

ALMA, Wis. (AP) — An ugly film of oil spread for 25 miles along the scenic upper Mississippi River from a wrecked barge today as Minnesota and Wisconsin conservationists wrung their hands over its impact on wildlife.

"It's like living in a refinery," said James Everson, a Wisconsin conservation warden. "A lot of people are pretty unhappy. All of a sudden we get a big slug of petroleum right in the middle of some of the clearest water on the Mississippi."

The diesel oil slick began floating downstream between tree-clad bluffs Monday from a barge which struck a current-diverting wing dam about a mile above Alma.

The barge carried 567,000 gallons of oil. Its captain, Chester Forkum, said about 400,000 gallons escaped into the river.

The river current quickly thinned the film in the main channel. But winds pushed the slick into bayous and left it stranded in still water containing plant and insect life needed by fish, waterfowl and other wildlife.

Red Troops Invade Brigade Headquarters

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist soldiers invaded a U.S. brigade headquarters on the central coast and shelled the headquarters of GIs scheduled to be withdrawn from Vietnam in attacks announced today.

The U.S. Command reported sharp clashes from just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) to Saigon's defense ring, with a total of 133 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese reported killed Tuesday and today.

Guerrilla rockets and mortars hit 23 sites overnight, military spokesmen said. Three civilians were killed and 15 wounded in a 120-round barrage into An Loc City, 60 miles north of Saigon.

Seven Americans were reported killed and 39 wounded in the shelling and ground battles, three of which began with Communist attacks or ambushes.

Viet Cong commandos carrying dynamite charges invaded the headquarters of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade at Bong Son and wounded 11 paratroopers with their satchel charges, the command said.

Damage was light to the camp 295 miles northeast of Saigon, the announcement said, and the commandos escaped without leaving any dead behind. There was no report how many of them got inside the wire.

The shelling of U.S. 9th Division headquarters 40 miles southwest of Saigon was the first salvo there since it was announced two brigades of the division would be pulled out in President Nixon's withdrawal.

Military sources said one GI was killed and 18 were wounded in the five-round mortar attack before dawn today.

A guerrilla ambush on a U.S. convoy in the Central Highlands broke up the attack which

U.S. air power accounted for most of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese slain in two other clashes—one just below the DMZ and the other 28 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Saigon-area clash opened with Communist ground gunners opening up on U.S. helicopters carrying soldiers into a new landing zone. Dive bombers screamed in and killed 32 guerrillas around the clearing. Below the DMZ, a spotter pilot sighted 100 North Vietnamese soldiers on the move with packs on their backs and called for air strikes which spokesmen said killed 48, with U.S. Marines coming in to account for 10 more dead. No American losses were reported.

'Monstrous Attitude,' Negotiation Charge

PARIS (UPI)—A U.S. official at the Vietnam talks said today the Communists have displayed a "monstrous attitude" in steadfastly refusing to enter into serious negotiations with the Allies.

At the same time, the official, who asked not to be identified, played down reports of minor differences between U.S. and South Vietnamese officials and reiterated American support of the Saigon government.

He said the refusal of the Communists to negotiate with Saigon and their "heavyhanded attempts" to overthrow the Saigon government are the main obstacles to progress towards peace.

The official said the offer by President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam for direct talks with the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Viet Cong, still stands despite the formation last week by the Viet Cong of a provisional revolutionary government.

"But they are the ones who are refusing to talk, and it takes two to negotiate," he said.

The official complained of news reports he said tended to dwell on minor differences between Saigon and Washington.

"But these very minor differences fade into insignificance when compared to the monstrous attitude of the other side, which is refusing to negotiate seriously," he said.

"The North Vietnamese Communist party has been trying work."

for almost 20 years to get rid of the nationalists in Vietnam," the official added. "Since 1960, they have been waging a military campaign to eliminate their nationalist opponents."

"In effect, they are now asking the Americans to do it for them," he said, referring to the Communist demands the United States withdraw its support from the South Vietnamese government. "It is not going to work."
